PEEL বনাম PEELR: সাধারণ body paragraph-এ PEEL যথেষ্ট। কিন্তু opinion বা discussion essay-তে যখন বিপরীত মতকে মেনে নিয়ে জবাব দিতে হয় ("Admittedly… However…"), তখন R (Response) যোগ করো — এতে লেখা আরও পরিণত ও যুক্তিপূর্ণ দেখায়, যা Band 7-এর জন্য গুরুত্বপূর্ণ।

- 🚫 প্রশ্ন মতামত না চাইলে (Type 1): Introduction ও Conclusion-এ মাত্র 2টি বাক্য। মতামত লিখবে না, আর "This essay will examine both the benefits and the drawbacks..." ধরনের plan sentence-ও লিখবে না — এটি মুখস্থ করা বাক্য মনে হয় এবং নতুন কোনো idea যোগ করে না। Introduction শেষ হবে Although বাক্যে, essay শেষ হবে While বাক্যে।
- ⭐ Emphasis rule: Although/While বাক্যে পাঠক সবসময় শেষের idea (comma-র পরের অংশ)-কে তোমার মত হিসেবে ধরে। তাই সুবিধার পক্ষে হলে আগে অসুবিধা, পরে সুবিধা; অসুবিধার পক্ষে হলে আগে সুবিধা, পরে অসুবিধা। Type 1-এ (মতামত নেই) সাধারণত আগে অসুবিধা, পরে সুবিধা।

- কেন / কী / কীভাবে জানতে চাইলে = List block (2টি idea): Point → Explain → Example → Point → Explain → Link (Consequently... / Together, these measures would...)। সমাধান হলে Point-এর জায়গায় Solution । List block-এ "I" লিখবে না।
- ⭐ "do you think" ফাঁদ: প্রশ্নের প্রথম শব্দ দেখো। Why do you think...? আসলে কারণ চায় (List), মত নয়।
- ⭐ "other" ফাঁদ: প্রশ্নে other থাকলে প্রশ্নে দেওয়া idea বাদ দিয়ে নতুন idea লেখো।
- Introduction (2টি বাক্য): paraphrase → [উত্তর 1], and [উত্তর 2]। মতের কারণ Introduction-এ নয়, Opinion block-এর শুরুতে।
- Conclusion (2টি বাক্য): In conclusion, [উত্তর 1 নতুন শব্দে]. [উত্তর 2 নতুন শব্দে]. কোনো প্রশ্নই মত না চাইলে (List + List) কোথাও "I" নয়।

Model Answers

1. CRI-01 — Is technology reducing crime?

The crime rate nowadays is decreasing compared to the past due to advanced technology which can prevent and solve crime. Do you agree or disagree?

Essay type	Agree / Disagree
Position	I completely disagree.
Ideas from Idea Bank (Part 3)	Police, Technology and Surveillance · Cybercrime and Online Fraud (the Technology sheet has another answer to this question)
Structure	Agree/Disagree guide: Opinion + 2 ideas → BP1 Idea 1 (P E E X L) → BP2 Idea 2 (P E X R L) → Opinion + 2 ideas in new words
Reused from Idea Bank	4 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 46 · BP1 113 · BP2 112 · Conclusion 39 · Total 310

Introduction · 46 words

It is often argued that there is less crime today than in the past because advanced technology helps to prevent and solve it. I completely disagree with this view because technology helps criminals as well as the police and it cannot remove the causes of crime.

Body Paragraph 1 · 113 words

Point The main reason why I disagree with this idea is that technology helps criminals as well as the police. Explain This is because criminals have also used technology to commit new types of crime, such as online fraud and hacking. Explain Cybercrime is one of the fastest-growing types of crime in the world, and it affects individuals, businesses and governments; as a result, people can now be robbed without leaving their homes. Example For example, a criminal in another country can empty a victim's bank account in minutes through a fake message, and this crime may never appear in local police records. Link Therefore, technology has changed the form of crime more than it has reduced it.

Body Paragraph 2 · 112 words

Point Another important reason for my disagreement is that technology cannot remove the causes of crime. Explain When people commit crimes because of their situation, cameras and databases do not help, as they cannot solve the underlying causes of crime, such as poverty, unemployment, poor education and drug addiction. Example For instance, a young person without a job may still steal from a market in spite of the CCTV cameras, which only record the crime after it has happened. Response Although some people argue that DNA testing has helped solve many crimes, solving a crime afterwards does not mean that fewer crimes are being committed. Link Consequently, technology alone cannot be responsible for a lower crime rate.

Conclusion · 39 words

In conclusion, I firmly believe that advanced technology has not caused a general fall in crime. Offenders now use digital tools to find new victims, and cameras and databases also fail to address problems such as poverty and addiction.

2. CRI-02 — Why do criminals reoffend after prison?

Many criminals commit further crimes as soon as they are released from prison. What do you think are the causes of this? What possible solutions can you suggest?

Essay type	Cause and Solution
Position	Causes: difficulty finding legal work and prison that fails to change behaviour. Solutions: help with finding jobs; education and training in prison.
Ideas from Idea Bank (Part 3)	Repeat Offending · Prison versus Rehabilitation
Structure	Cause/Problem + Solution guide: 2 causes or problems + 2 solutions → BP1 (P E X P E L) → BP2, each solution fixing one point (N E X N E L) → Same ideas in new words
Reused from Idea Bank	3 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 34 · BP1 119 · BP2 111 · Conclusion 31 · Total 295

Introduction · 34 words

Many offenders return to crime soon after they leave prison. This is mainly because they cannot find legal work and prison fails to change them, but employment support and rehabilitation can tackle this problem.

Body Paragraph 1 · 119 words

Point One of the main causes of reoffending is the difficulty of finding legal work after prison. Explain Many employers are unwilling to hire someone with a criminal record, because they fear that the person may steal or cause trouble. Example For example, a former prisoner who is rejected by every employer may be unable to pay rent or support their family, and crime may then appear to be the only way to survive. Point Another important cause is that prison itself often fails to change offenders' behaviour. Explain Prisoners who spend years with other criminals, without education or training, often learn new criminal skills and join a criminal gang. Link Consequently, many people leave prison less prepared for normal life than when they entered.

Body Paragraph 2 · 111 words

Solution The most effective solution is for governments to help former prisoners find work. Explain If companies receive tax benefits for hiring former offenders, employers will worry less about the risk, and more ex-prisoners will find jobs. Example For instance, a former prisoner who is hired by a local factory gains a steady income to pay rent, which removes the need to steal. Solution In addition, prisons could focus on rehabilitation, not only punishment. Explain When prisoners receive education and vocational training, such as carpentry or computer skills, they leave with useful skills, and counselling helps them to take responsibility for their actions. Link Together, these measures would break the cycle of crime and make society safer.

Conclusion · 31 words

In conclusion, criminals often reoffend because employers reject them and prison does not improve their behaviour. Practical help with jobs and better training behind bars would reduce crime and protect communities.

3. CRI-03 — Is media violence the main cause of juvenile crime?

It is often thought that the increase in juvenile crime can be attributed to violence in the media. Do you agree that this is the main cause of juvenile crime? What solutions can you offer to deal with this situation?

Essay type	Double Question — Opinion + List (opinion + solutions)
Position	Media violence is not the main cause; early support for families and positive activities for teenagers would work better.
Ideas from Idea Bank (Part 3)	Media, Video Games and Violence · Youth Crime and Parents' Responsibility
Reused from Idea Bank	3 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 39 · BP1 113 · BP2 107 · Conclusion 37 · Total 296

Introduction · 39 words

It is often claimed that violence in the media is the main reason for rising juvenile crime. I firmly believe that it is not the main cause, and support for families and positive activities for teenagers would work better.

Body Paragraph 1 · 113 words

Point I firmly believe that media violence is not the main cause of juvenile crime because the vast majority of people who watch violent films or play violent games never become violent in real life. Explain When teenagers do turn to crime, problems at home, poverty and bad company usually matter far more. Example For example, a child who grows up in a violent home or a dangerous neighbourhood is far more likely to become violent than a child who simply watches action films. Response Although some people argue that children often imitate what they see, most young viewers understand that films are not real life. Link Therefore, blaming the media ignores the real roots of youth crime.

Body Paragraph 2 · 107 words

Solution The most effective solution is for schools and social workers to support families and children at risk. Explain If schools identify troubled pupils early and offer counselling, problems at home can be dealt with before they lead to crime. Example For instance, a boy who is angry because his parents fight at home may calm down after regular sessions with a school counsellor. Solution In addition, communities could offer teenagers positive ways to spend their free time. Explain When young people join youth clubs, sports teams or vocational courses, they gain positive role models and spend less time with gangs. Link Together, these measures would tackle the real causes of youth crime.

Conclusion · 37 words

In conclusion, I firmly believe that violent media is not the main cause of youth crime because family and social problems matter far more. Early support for troubled children and useful activities for teenagers would reduce it.

4. CRI-04 — Adult punishment for teenagers?

In some societies, the number of crimes committed by teenagers is growing. Some people think that, regardless of age, teenagers who commit major crimes should receive adult punishment. To what extent do you agree?

Essay type	Agree / Disagree
Position	I completely disagree.
Ideas from Idea Bank (Part 3)	Youth Crime and Parents' Responsibility · Prison versus Rehabilitation
Structure	Agree/Disagree guide: Opinion + 2 ideas → BP1 Idea 1 (P E E X L) → BP2 Idea 2 (P E X R L) → Opinion + 2 ideas in new words
Reused from Idea Bank	5 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 43 · BP1 102 · BP2 119 · Conclusion 41 · Total 305

Introduction · 43 words

As more teenagers commit crimes, it is sometimes claimed that those guilty of major offences should receive the same punishment as adults. I completely disagree with this view because teenagers are less mature than adults and adult prisons can make them more dangerous.

Body Paragraph 1 · 102 words

Point The main reason why I disagree with this idea is that teenagers are less mature than adults. Explain This is because young people are still developing, both emotionally and mentally. Explain They are more likely to act without thinking about the consequences and more open to change; as a result, they deserve a chance to correct their mistakes. Example For example, a sixteen-year-old who joins friends in a violent robbery may not fully understand the result of their actions, and this lack of judgement is very different from an adult's planned crime. Link Therefore, the law should not judge teenagers in the same way as adults.

Body Paragraph 2 · 119 words

Point Another important reason for my disagreement is that adult prisons can make young offenders more dangerous. Explain When teenagers are locked up with older criminals, they learn the wrong lessons, because placing teenagers in adult prisons can expose them to experienced criminals and make them more likely to reoffend. Example For instance, a teenager who spends ten years in an adult prison may leave as a more dangerous criminal with no education or skills, which puts the public at greater risk. Response Although some people argue that the harm to victims is the same, long sentences in adult prisons do not prevent future crime. Link Consequently, many legal systems treat young offenders differently, focusing on education and rehabilitation rather than long prison sentences.

Conclusion · 41 words

In conclusion, I firmly believe that young offenders should not receive the same sentences as adults, even for major crimes. Their judgement is not yet fully formed, and time among hardened criminals would also make them far more likely to reoffend.

5. CRI-05 — Are more police the only way to reduce crime?

Some countries are struggling with an increase in the rate of crime. Many people think that having more police on the streets is the only way to reduce crime. To what extent do you agree?

Essay type	Agree / Disagree
Position	I completely disagree.
Ideas from Idea Bank (Part 3)	Police, Technology and Surveillance · Crime in Cities and Crime Prevention · Causes of Crime
Structure	Agree/Disagree guide: Opinion + 2 ideas → BP1 Idea 1 (P E E X L) → BP2 Idea 2 (P E X R L) → Opinion + 2 ideas in new words
Reused from Idea Bank	5 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 44 · BP1 108 · BP2 108 · Conclusion 40 · Total 300

Introduction · 44 words

As crime rates rise in some countries, many believe that putting more police on the streets is the only solution. I completely disagree with this view because the police cannot solve the causes of crime and there are other effective ways to prevent it.

Body Paragraph 1 · 108 words

Point The main reason why I disagree with this idea is that the police cannot solve the causes of crime. Explain This is because police can catch criminals, but they cannot solve the underlying causes of crime, such as poverty, unemployment, poor education and drug addiction. Explain People in these situations may keep breaking the law; as a result, officers arrest one offender while another soon takes their place. Example For example, a young person with no job in a poor neighbourhood may join a gang whether there are police nearby or not, and this problem cannot be solved by patrols. Link Therefore, more officers can only deal with the results of crime.

Body Paragraph 2 · 108 words

Point Another important reason for my disagreement is that there are other effective ways to prevent crime. Explain When governments want long-term results, they can act early, as governments can tackle the causes of crime by creating jobs, improving schools and providing youth programmes and social support in poor neighbourhoods. Example For instance, a youth programme that teaches poor teenagers a useful trade can keep them away from gangs, which protects people without extra officers. Response Although some people argue that a visible police presence can deter crime, this effect is often short-term and hiring more officers is also expensive. Link Consequently, police work must be combined with social programmes and community involvement.

Conclusion · 40 words

In conclusion, I firmly believe that a stronger police presence is not the only way to reduce crime. Officers cannot remove the social problems that lead to law-breaking, and better schools, jobs and urban planning can also keep communities safe.

6. CRI-06 — Should women work in the police force?

Some people think that women should not be allowed to work in the police force. Do you agree or disagree?

Essay type	Agree / Disagree
Position	I completely disagree.
Ideas from Idea Bank (Part 3)	Police, Technology and Surveillance · Ch. 06 Work Idea Bank: Gender Equality at Work
Structure	Agree/Disagree guide: Opinion + 2 ideas → BP1 Idea 1 (P E E X L) → BP2 Idea 2 (P E X R L) → Opinion + 2 ideas in new words
Reused from Idea Bank	4 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 37 · BP1 110 · BP2 116 · Conclusion 40 · Total 303

Introduction · 37 words

It is sometimes claimed that women should not be given the opportunity to work as police officers. I completely disagree with this view because modern policing needs many different skills and excluding women would be deeply unfair.

Body Paragraph 1 · 110 words

Point The main reason why I disagree with this idea is that modern policing needs many different skills. Explain This is because modern policing involves many skills, including communication, investigation and working with victims, and female officers are often particularly effective in cases involving women and children. Explain Not all police work depends on physical strength; as a result, a force that includes women can serve the whole community better. Example For example, a victim of sexual violence may feel more comfortable reporting the crime to a female officer than to a male one, and this can help the police to catch the offender. Link Therefore, female officers make the police stronger and more effective.

Body Paragraph 2 · 116 words

Point Another important reason for my disagreement is that excluding women would be deeply unfair. Explain When women are denied a career because of their gender, their rights are ignored, as it is a matter of fairness and human rights: people should be judged on their ability, not their gender. Example For instance, a fit and intelligent young woman who passes the same tests as male candidates should have the same chance of serving her country, which is already possible in Bangladesh. Response Although some people argue that the work can be physically dangerous, officers are selected through fitness tests and training, whatever their gender. Link Consequently, most countries now recruit both men and women, and this is the right approach.

Conclusion · 40 words

In conclusion, I firmly believe that women should have the right to join the police. A mixed force brings a wider range of abilities to the job, and equal access to this profession is also a matter of basic justice.

7. CRI-07 — Would banning alcohol reduce crime?

Many crimes are often related to the consumption of alcohol. Some people think that the best way to reduce the crime rate is to ban alcohol. Do you think this is an effective measure against crime? What other solutions can you suggest?

Essay type	Double Question — Opinion + List (opinion + other solutions)
Position	A ban would not be effective; controlling sales and treating addiction would work better.
Ideas from Idea Bank (Part 3)	Drugs, Alcohol and Crime · Crime in Cities and Crime Prevention
Reused from Idea Bank	3 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 39 · BP1 108 · BP2 108 · Conclusion 33 · Total 288

Introduction · 39 words

Because many crimes are linked to alcohol, some people believe that banning it is the best way to reduce crime. I firmly believe that a ban would not be effective, and controlling sales and treating addiction would work better.

Body Paragraph 1 · 108 words

Point I firmly believe that banning alcohol would not be an effective measure against crime because it would create new criminal activity. Explain When alcohol is banned, illegal markets appear, controlled by criminals, and people may drink dangerous homemade alcohol. Example For example, a man who can no longer buy alcohol legally may buy cheap homemade liquor from a gang, which can make him seriously ill and gives the profits to criminals. Response Although some people argue that domestic violence, fights and dangerous driving are often linked to alcohol, a ban would push drinking out of sight rather than stop it. Link Therefore, a complete ban would bring more problems than it solves.

Body Paragraph 2 · 108 words

Solution The most effective alternative is for governments to control how alcohol is sold. Explain When bars must close early and young people cannot buy alcohol, there are fewer late-night fights and drink-driving accidents. Example For instance, a town that stops bars from serving alcohol after midnight may see far fewer fights on its streets in the early morning. Solution In addition, health services could offer treatment to people who are already addicted. Explain For people who are already addicted, treatment and rehabilitation programmes, including medical care, counselling and support groups, can help them recover and return to normal life. Link Together, these measures would reduce alcohol-related crime without the dangers of a ban.

Conclusion · 33 words

In conclusion, I firmly believe that prohibiting alcohol would fail because it would create illegal markets run by criminals. Stricter control of sales and treatment for addicts would reduce alcohol-related crime more successfully.

8. CRI-08 — Community work instead of prison?

Some people think certain prisoners should be made to do unpaid community work instead of being put behind bars. To what extent do you agree?

Essay type	Agree / Disagree
Position	I completely agree.
Ideas from Idea Bank (Part 3)	Community Service and Alternative Punishments · Prison versus Rehabilitation
Structure	Agree/Disagree guide: Opinion + 2 ideas → BP1 Idea 1 (P E E X L) → BP2 Idea 2 (P E X R L) → Opinion + 2 ideas in new words
Reused from Idea Bank	6 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 43 · BP1 103 · BP2 106 · Conclusion 39 · Total 291

Introduction · 43 words

It is often argued that certain offenders should perform unpaid work for the community instead of being sent to prison. I completely agree with this view because this punishment is more useful to society and it also reduces the risk of future crime.

Body Paragraph 1 · 103 words

Point The main reason why I agree with this idea is that community work is more useful to society than prison. Explain This is because community work allows offenders to pay back to society for the harm they have caused. Explain Keeping a person in prison is expensive, while community service requires only supervision; as a result, public money can be saved for schools and hospitals. Example For example, a young person who repairs damaged public property under one supervisor costs far less than a prisoner, and the money saved can help to pay for a local school. Link Therefore, this punishment benefits both local people and taxpayers.

Body Paragraph 2 · 106 words

Point Another important reason for my agreement is that community work reduces the risk of future crime. Explain When offenders stay in the community, they can keep their jobs and family relationships, which are important for staying away from crime. Example For instance, a first-time offender who continues working and lives at home does not meet serious criminals in prison, which reduces the risk that they will learn new criminal behaviour. Response Although some people argue that they do not provide enough deterrence or justice, a well-supervised programme can be a hard and public punishment. Link Consequently, unpaid community work is a better choice than prison for first-time and non-violent offenders.

Conclusion · 39 words

In conclusion, I firmly believe that some offenders should do unpaid community service and not go to prison. This sentence gives something back to the public, and it also helps people to return to a normal and law-abiding life.

9. CRI-09 — A fixed punishment for every crime?

Many people believe that having a fixed punishment for all crimes is more efficient. What are the advantages and disadvantages of having a fixed punishment?

Essay type	Advantages vs Disadvantages — Type 1 (discuss, no opinion)
Position	No opinion is asked for, so there is no opinion or plan sentence; both sides are discussed in balance.
Ideas from Idea Bank (Part 3)	Sentencing: Fixed Punishments or Judges' Discretion
Structure	Adv/Disadv guide: Although-intro → BP1 advantages (7 sentences) → BP2 disadvantages (7 sentences) → While-conclusion
Reused from Idea Bank	4 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 34 · BP1 134 · BP2 132 · Conclusion 30 · Total 330

Introduction · 34 words

Some people believe that giving every crime a fixed punishment would make the justice system more efficient. Although fixed penalties can ignore personal circumstances and remove judges' mercy, they bring consistency and faster trials.

Body Paragraph 1 · 134 words

Topic There is little doubt that fixed punishments offer considerable advantages to the justice system. Point To begin with, the main argument for fixed punishments is consistency and fairness. Explain This is because everyone who commits the same crime receives the same penalty, which can increase public trust in the justice system and reduce the influence of corruption, personal bias or prejudice. Example For example, a rich businessman and a poor rickshaw driver who commit the same offence would receive the same sentence, which shows that the law treats everyone equally. Point In addition, fixed punishments are not only clear but also faster for the courts. Explain As a result of removing long debates about sentences, cases can be completed more quickly and cheaply, which reduces court delays. Summary Overall, fixed punishments could make the legal system more trusted and efficient.

Body Paragraph 2 · 132 words

Topic On the other hand, it cannot be denied that fixed punishments also have some drawbacks. Point Firstly, the biggest problem is that they ignore individual circumstances. Explain Two people may commit the same crime for very different reasons; as a result, the same penalty can be deeply unfair. Example For instance, a hungry person who steals food to feed their children is not the same as a professional criminal who steals expensive goods to sell. Point Secondly, judges would lose the power to show mercy to young or mentally ill offenders. Explain If a teenager who shows genuine regret receives the same sentence as a repeat offender, he may lose hope of a fresh start and, consequently, become more likely to reoffend. Summary Overall, these problems could make a fixed system feel harsh and unjust to many citizens.

Conclusion · 30 words

In conclusion, giving each crime one set penalty is an idea that many people support. While fixed punishments may treat different situations unfairly, they make justice more consistent and efficient.

10. CRI-10 — Crime prevention: government or individuals?

Some people think that the government should be responsible for crime prevention, while others believe that it is the responsibility of the individual to protect themselves. Discuss both sides and give your opinion.

Essay type	Discussion (both views + opinion)
Position	Crime prevention is the responsibility of the government.
Ideas from Idea Bank (Part 3)	Crime in Cities and Crime Prevention · Police, Technology and Surveillance · Cybercrime and Online Fraud
Structure	Discuss Both Views guide: Both views + clean opinion → BP1 the other view (P E E X L) → BP2 my view (P E X R L) → Both themes + opinion in new words
Reused from Idea Bank	4 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 36 · BP1 98 · BP2 119 · Conclusion 43 · Total 296

Introduction · 36 words

While some people argue that individuals must protect themselves from crime, others believe that prevention is the responsibility of the government. I completely support the latter view because only governments can tackle the causes of crime.

Body Paragraph 1 · 98 words

Point On the one hand, people who support personal responsibility argue that police cannot be everywhere. Explain People can lock their doors, avoid displaying valuable items in public, use strong passwords online and be careful at night. Explain Communities can organise neighbourhood watch groups, in which residents look out for suspicious activity and report it to the police. Example For example, residents who watch their street at night and report suspicious visitors may stop a burglary before it happens, and this makes the area safer for everyone. Link For this reason, many people believe that individuals should be responsible for their own safety.

Body Paragraph 2 · 119 words

Point On the other hand, I firmly believe that crime prevention is the government's duty because governments can tackle the causes of crime by creating jobs, improving schools and providing youth programmes. Explain When young people are given jobs and good schools, they are less likely to turn to crime, and no individual can provide these things. Example For instance, a teenager in a poor area who joins a government training programme may find work instead of joining a gang, which makes the whole neighbourhood safer. Response Although some people argue that locks and careful habits prevent crime, these precautions protect only one home and do not remove the reasons why crimes happen. Link Consequently, preventing crime must be the responsibility of the government.

Conclusion · 43 words

In conclusion, people hold different views on whether crime prevention is the duty of governments or of individuals. While sensible precautions can protect a home, I firmly believe that governments should be responsible because only they can deal with the causes of crime.

11. CRI-11 — Is the death penalty the best way to reduce serious crime?

The death penalty is the best way to control and reduce serious crime. To what extent do you agree?

Essay type	Agree / Disagree
Position	I completely disagree.
Ideas from Idea Bank (Part 3)	Capital Punishment · Police, Technology and Surveillance
Structure	Agree/Disagree guide: Opinion + 2 ideas → BP1 Idea 1 (P E E X L) → BP2 Idea 2 (P E X R L) → Opinion + 2 ideas in new words
Reused from Idea Bank	6 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 38 · BP1 116 · BP2 117 · Conclusion 40 · Total 311

Introduction · 38 words

It is sometimes claimed that executing criminals is the most effective way to control serious crime. I completely disagree with this view because there is no clear evidence that it reduces crime and innocent people may be executed.

Body Paragraph 1 · 116 words

Point The main reason why I disagree with this idea is that the death penalty does not clearly reduce crime. Explain This is because there is no clear evidence that countries with the death penalty have lower murder rates than similar countries without it. Explain Many serious crimes are committed in anger or by people who never expect to be caught; as a result, they do not think about the punishment. Example For example, a person who kills during a violent argument is unlikely to stop and consider the law, and this shows why a harsher sentence may not prevent such a crime. Link Therefore, it is the certainty of being caught, not the severity of punishment, that deters most criminals.

Body Paragraph 2 · 117 words

Point Another important reason for my disagreement is that the death penalty carries the risk of executing innocent people. Explain When courts make errors, the results can be terrible, because witnesses can make mistakes, evidence can be misunderstood, and police or courts can be influenced by corruption or prejudice. Example For instance, in several countries, people who were sentenced to death have later been proved innocent, sometimes through new DNA evidence, which shows that this danger is real. Response Although some people argue that some crimes are so terrible that death is the only fitting punishment, once a person has been executed, such a mistake can never be corrected. Link Consequently, life imprisonment without the possibility of release is a better alternative.

Conclusion · 40 words

In conclusion, I firmly believe that capital punishment is not the best way to deal with serious crime. It has not been proved to stop offenders, and it also creates the terrible possibility of killing someone who did nothing wrong.

12. CRI-12 — Is prison the best place for criminals?

While it is sometimes thought that prison is the best place for criminals, others believe that there are better ways to deal with them. What is your opinion?

Essay type	Discussion (both views + opinion)
Position	There are better ways than prison to deal with criminals.
Ideas from Idea Bank (Part 3)	Prison versus Rehabilitation · Community Service and Alternative Punishments
Structure	Discuss Both Views guide: Both views + clean opinion → BP1 the other view (P E E X L) → BP2 my view (P E X R L) → Both themes + opinion in new words
Reused from Idea Bank	3 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 36 · BP1 103 · BP2 116 · Conclusion 43 · Total 298

Introduction · 36 words

While some people argue that offenders should always be sent to prison, others believe that there are more effective ways to deal with them. I completely support the latter view because prison often makes criminals worse.

Body Paragraph 1 · 103 words

Point On the one hand, people who support prison argue that it plays an essential role in protecting society. Explain People who commit serious violent crimes, such as murder, rape or armed robbery, need to be kept away from society so that they cannot harm others. Explain Prison also acts as a deterrent; as a result, the fear of losing one's freedom may stop some people from committing crimes. Example For example, someone thinking of stealing a car may change their mind when imagining years in prison, and this protects a possible victim. Link For this reason, many people believe that prison is the best place for criminals.

Body Paragraph 2 · 116 words

Point On the other hand, I firmly believe that there are better ways to deal with criminals because young or first-time offenders who are imprisoned for minor crimes may mix with experienced criminals. Explain When they are released, many struggle to find work because of their criminal record, and they soon return to crime. Example For instance, a teenager caught shoplifting may learn more from community service and counselling than from six months behind bars, which gives them a better chance of finding a job. Response Although some people argue that prison keeps society safe, this protection ends on the day that a prisoner returns to a life of crime. Link Consequently, methods that reduce reoffending are more effective than prison.

Conclusion · 43 words

In conclusion, people hold different views on whether criminals should be sent to prison or dealt with in other ways. While prison can deter some offenders, I firmly believe that alternatives are better because education and training help people to stop committing crimes.

13. CRI-13 — Why is crime higher in cities?

The crime rate in most countries is often higher in urban areas than in rural areas. Why do you think that is? What can be done to reduce the crime rate?

Essay type	Cause and Solution
Position	Causes: strong inequality and anonymity in cities. Solutions: jobs and youth programmes; neighbourhood watch groups.
Ideas from Idea Bank (Part 3)	Crime in Cities and Crime Prevention · Causes of Crime
Structure	Cause/Problem + Solution guide: 2 causes or problems + 2 solutions → BP1 (P E X P E L) → BP2, each solution fixing one point (N E X N E L) → Same ideas in new words
Reused from Idea Bank	4 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 36 · BP1 99 · BP2 116 · Conclusion 31 · Total 282

Introduction · 36 words

In most countries, crime rates are higher in urban areas than in the countryside. This is mainly because of strong inequality and anonymity in cities, but more jobs and neighbourhood watch groups can reduce urban crime.

Body Paragraph 1 · 99 words

Point One of the main causes of this difference is the strong inequality found in cities. Explain Wealthy and poor neighbourhoods exist side by side, which can create resentment and temptation. Example For example, a jobless young person who lives beside a wealthy area may see expensive phones and cars every day, and this can tempt them to steal. Point Another important cause is that city life is more anonymous. Explain People in cities often do not know their neighbours, so criminals can act anonymously, without being recognised. Link Consequently, cities offer both stronger reasons to commit crime and a better chance of escaping notice.

Body Paragraph 2 · 116 words

Solution The most effective solution is for governments to tackle the causes of crime by creating jobs, improving schools and providing youth programmes and social support in poor neighbourhoods. Explain When young people have a steady income and useful activities, stealing becomes far less tempting. Example For instance, a jobless young person who joins a training programme and finds work in a local workshop has less reason to steal, which also makes the neighbourhood safer. Solution In addition, communities could reduce anonymity by working together. Explain Communities can organise neighbourhood watch groups, in which residents look out for suspicious activity and report it to the police. Link Together, these measures would bring some of the safety of village life to large cities.

Conclusion · 31 words

In conclusion, crime is higher in cities because inequality creates temptation and criminals can hide among strangers. Better opportunities for young people and stronger neighbourhood cooperation would make cities much safer.

14. CRI-14 — Is poverty behind most crimes?

Some people think that poverty is the reason behind most crimes. Do you agree or disagree?

Essay type	Agree / Disagree
Position	I completely disagree.
Ideas from Idea Bank (Part 3)	Causes of Crime: Poverty, Education and Family · Drugs, Alcohol and Crime (planned in Part 2F)
Structure	Agree/Disagree guide: Opinion + 2 ideas → BP1 Idea 1 (P E E X L) → BP2 Idea 2 (P E X R L) → Opinion + 2 ideas in new words
Reused from Idea Bank	6 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 37 · BP1 107 · BP2 113 · Conclusion 37 · Total 294

Introduction · 37 words

It is sometimes claimed that most crimes are committed because people are poor. I completely disagree with this view because most poor people never break the law and many serious crimes are caused by greed or addiction.

Body Paragraph 1 · 107 words

Point The main reason why I disagree with this idea is that poverty alone does not explain all crime. Explain This is because most poor people are honest and never break the law, even when they have very little money. Explain Many families teach their children that stealing is wrong, whatever their situation; as a result, millions of people stay honest in spite of hardship. Example For example, a rickshaw puller who earns a small daily income may work long hours for many years without ever committing a crime, and this is true of countless poor workers. Link Therefore, being poor cannot be described as the main reason why people commit crimes.

Body Paragraph 2 · 113 words

Point Another important reason for my disagreement is that many serious crimes are caused by greed or addiction. Explain When wealthy people commit crimes, they do not need the money, as these white-collar crimes are driven by greed rather than need. Example For instance, a corrupt official who accepts a large bribe is rarely poor, which shows that fraud, corruption, tax evasion and bribery can come from the wish for more wealth. Response Although some people argue that poverty and unemployment are often linked to crime, drug and alcohol addiction can lead people to steal in order to pay for their habit, whatever their income. Link Consequently, governments must look beyond poverty when they try to reduce crime.

Conclusion · 37 words

In conclusion, I firmly believe that a lack of money is not the reason behind most crimes. The majority of low-income people obey the law, and much serious offending also comes from personal greed and drug use.

15. CRI-15 — How can internet crime be tackled?

Internet crime is increasing rapidly as more and more people are using the internet to make financial transactions. What can be done to tackle this problem?

Essay type	Solutions only (Cause/Problem + Solution guide, Section 14)
Position	No opinion is asked for. Governments should create specialist police units, and banks should protect and educate their customers.

Word count	Intro 37 · BP1 98 · BP2 96 · Conclusion 33 · Total 264

Introduction · 37 words

As more people use the internet to make payments and manage their savings, online crime is rising quickly. Governments can tackle this by creating specialist police units, and banks can help by protecting and educating their customers.

Body Paragraph 1 · 98 words

Solution The most effective solution is for governments to give the police the tools to fight online crime. Explain Governments should create specialist cybercrime units with trained officers and modern equipment, and they should pass strong laws against online fraud and data theft. Explain Because cybercrime crosses borders, international cooperation between police forces is essential for tracking and arresting criminals. Example For example, if a fraudster abroad steals money from a bank account in Bangladesh, police in both countries can share information quickly to trace and arrest him. Link Consequently, criminals would no longer feel safe hiding behind a screen in another country.

Body Paragraph 2 · 96 words

Solution In addition, banks could protect their customers more actively. Explain They can use stronger security systems, such as two-step verification, monitor unusual transactions and quickly block suspicious accounts. Explain Banks should also teach customers about common scams through text messages, posters and short videos, especially elderly people and new internet users. Example For instance, a pensioner who is warned by text that banks never ask for PINs may refuse to share his code with a caller pretending to be from the bank, which protects his life savings. Link Together, these measures would make online payments much safer for every customer.

Conclusion · 33 words

In conclusion, internet fraud can be reduced if governments create skilled cybercrime units and work with other countries. Stronger bank security and regular customer education would also leave criminals with far fewer victims.

16. CRI-16 — Should parents be punished for their children's crimes?

Reused from Idea Bank	5 sentences (highlighted)
Word count	Intro 39 · BP1 120 · BP2 110 · Conclusion 41 · Total 310

Introduction · 39 words

It is sometimes claimed that mothers and fathers should also be punished when their children commit crimes. I completely disagree with this view because many parents cannot fully control their teenagers and punishment would only harm struggling families further.

Body Paragraph 1 · 120 words

Point The main reason why I disagree with this idea is that many parents cannot fully control their teenagers. Explain This is because many parents do their best but still cannot control a rebellious teenager. Explain Teenagers want to be accepted by their friends, and if their friends are involved in crime, they may join in to prove themselves; as a result, even caring parents may not know what their children are doing. Example For example, a single parent who works two jobs may never know that a teenage son has joined a gang, and this family should not be blamed for a choice that the boy made alone. Link Therefore, it would be unfair to punish people for actions that they could not prevent.

Body Paragraph 2 · 110 words

Point Another important reason for my disagreement is that punishment would harm struggling families. Explain When parents are fined or sent to prison, the whole household suffers, as punishing them may cause further harm to struggling families. Example For instance, a poor family that must pay a heavy fine may have less money for food and school fees, which could push the younger children towards the same problems. Response Although some people argue that children who lack parental supervision, love and discipline are more likely to behave badly, parenting classes and family support are often seen as fairer than fines or imprisonment. Link Consequently, governments should help these families instead of making their lives harder.

Conclusion · 41 words

In conclusion, I firmly believe that parents should not be punished for the crimes of their children. Young people often act beyond the control of their families, and penalties would also make life worse for homes that are already in difficulty.

17. MED-02 — Does media violence promote violence in society?

Introduction · 40 words

It is often argued that violent films, games and online videos are making society more violent. I completely disagree with this view because watching violence rarely leads to real violence and other factors have a far stronger effect on behaviour.

Body Paragraph 1 · 117 words

Point The main reason why I disagree with this idea is that watching violence rarely leads to real violence. Explain This is because most people can tell the difference between a story on a screen and real life, and even though violent films are popular, few viewers become violent. Explain Millions of people watch action films and play games every week; as a result, violence would be far more common if the media were the main cause. Example For example, in some countries where violent video games are extremely popular, crime rates have fallen in recent decades, and this suggests that there is no simple link between the two. Link Therefore, the effect of violent media on society has been greatly exaggerated.

Body Paragraph 2 · 113 words

Point Another important reason for my disagreement is that other factors have a far stronger effect on behaviour. Explain When young people become violent, the real causes are usually found in their lives, such as poverty, family breakdown, drug use and peer pressure. Example For instance, a teenager who grows up in a violent home and joins a gang learns aggression from the people around them, which is far more powerful than any film. Response Although some people argue that repeated exposure to violent images may make people less sensitive to the suffering of others, this does not make ordinary viewers attack anyone. Link Consequently, governments should focus on these social problems instead of blaming films and games.

Conclusion · 40 words

In conclusion, I firmly believe that violent media is not responsible for violence in society. Most viewers never copy what they see on a screen, and difficult family and social conditions also play a much greater part in aggressive behaviour.
