IELTS Writing Task 2 — Topic Idea Bank

Chapter 09 · Media & Advertising

Ideas · Vocabulary · Sentence Structure · Bangla Translation
Essays · Homework

How to Use This Chapter

এই অধ্যায়টি কীভাবে পড়বে (8-day plan)

1. Day 1: Part 1 ও Part 2 মন দিয়ে পড়ো। Idea flow chain ও "T-I-M test" কৌশলটি মুখস্থ করো। তারপর Part 3-এর প্রথম 3টি category পড়ো।
2. Day 2: Part 3-এর আরও 4–5টি category পড়ো। Bold করা collocation-গুলো খাতায় লিখে রাখো। Part 4 থেকে 15টি শব্দ শেখো।
3. Day 3: Part 3-এর বাকি category ও Part 4-এর বাকি শব্দ শেষ করো। Part 5 থেকে 5টি sentence pattern নিজের উদাহরণ দিয়ে লেখো।
4. Day 4–6: প্রতিদিন Part 6-এর একটি বাংলা essay ইংরেজিতে অনুবাদ করো (40 মিনিট)। প্রতিটি অনুচ্ছেদের word target মেনে চলো। শেষে Part 8 checklist দিয়ে মিলিয়ে নাও।
5. Day 7–8: Part 9-এর homework essay নিজে নিজে লেখো, কোনো সাহায্য ছাড়া, ঘড়ি ধরে 40 মিনিটে।
6. যেকোনো একটি লেখা AI-কে পাঠিয়ে feedback নাও, তারপর ভুলগুলো "error notebook"-এ লিখে রাখো।

তোমার word plan — essay-র ধরন অনুযায়ী (Part 2G দেখো): Agree / Disagree 270–345 · Discuss Both Views 260–299 · Advantages – Disadvantages 330–360 (মতামত না চাইলে 310–340) · Cause/Problem + Solution ও Double Question 260–300 → সহজ হিসাব: 35 + 105 + 105 + 35 = 280 words

Parts in this chapter

Part	Content
1	Idea Generation Flow
2	Exam-Hall Brainstorming System
3	Category-Wise Free Writing (12 categories)
4	Vocabulary & Collocation Bank
5	Sentence Structure Toolkit
6	Bangla → English Translation Essays (3 essays)
7	Question Bank
8	Self-Check Checklist
9	Homework Essays (4 essays)

Part 1 — Idea Generation Flow

Media → Advertising & Children → Consumerism & Buying What We Don't Need → Fake News & Misinformation → News Values: Bad News & Objectivity → Media Responsibility & Press Freedom → Celebrities, Influencers & Role Models → Privacy of Famous People → Social Media vs Traditional News → Television & Children's Behaviour → Films, Cinema & Streaming → Books, E-books & Reading → Sponsorship & Marketing

When you see any media or advertising question, run through this chain from left to right and ask: "Does this question touch this area?" Then stop at the 2 links that fit the question best. Those 2 links become your two body paragraphs.

Memory trick — test every media question with T-I-M: Truth, Influence, Money

Test	Question to ask yourself	Example (advertising to children)
T — Truth	Is the information honest, accurate and fair?	adverts exaggerate; children cannot tell fact from persuasion
I — Influence	How does it affect people's behaviour, health or values?	children want junk food and toys; family arguments
M — Money	Who earns money, and does profit come before people?	companies and TV channels profit from children's attention

Almost every media essay can use two of these three tests: one for each body paragraph.

> Example: "Famous people should have no right to privacy."
>
> T → the press often publishes rumours and edited photos ✓ — I → harassment harms celebrities' mental health and families ✓ — M → newspapers sell more copies with gossip ✓. Chain links: Privacy of Famous People + Media Responsibility.

Part 2 — Exam-Hall Brainstorming System

2A. The 5-Minute Plan

Minute	What to do	What you write on the question paper
0–1	Decode the question. Underline the topic words and the instruction words. Decide which of your five essay guides it uses (Part 2G).	e.g. adverts / children / not allowed / your opinion → Agree / Disagree guide
1–3	T-I-M grid. Truth, Influence, Money — one or two notes each.	4–6 one-line notes
3–4	Choose the 2 strongest ideas. Add one reason and one example to each.	Idea 1 + why + example; Idea 2 + why + example
4–5	Decide your position (one clear side, only if the question asks) and use the guide's word plan.	Thesis / BP1 / BP2 / Conclusion in 4 lines

> পরীক্ষার হলে মনে রাখো: "the media", "the news", "advertising" — এই শব্দগুলো বারবার একই রূপে লিখবে না। প্রতিশব্দ ব্যবহার করো: the press, news outlets, journalists, broadcasters, social media platforms, commercials, adverts, marketing campaigns। আর মনে রাখো "news" সবসময় singular — The news is often negative.

2B. WHO is affected?

- Children — adverts, television content, screen time, role models
- Teenagers — social media, influencers, body image, fake news
- Adults / consumers — buying decisions, debt, trust in news

- Celebrities and public figures — privacy, press attention, responsibility as role models
- Journalists and news organisations — truth, independence, commercial pressure
- Advertisers and companies — sales, brand image, marketing budgets
- Small local businesses — compete with big brands' advertising
- Governments — regulation, press freedom, misinformation
- Society and democracy — informed citizens, public debate, social values
- Film-makers, writers and artists — cinema, books, streaming, culture

2C. WHAT is the effect?

Type of effect	Media example
Behavioural	Children copy what they see; adverts change what people buy and eat.
Psychological	Constant bad news causes anxiety; edited images damage self-esteem.
Economic	Advertising drives sales and jobs; consumerism leads to debt.
Social / political	Fake news divides communities; a free press holds leaders accountable.
Health	Junk-food adverts contribute to childhood obesity.
Cultural	Foreign films and global media influence local values and fashion.

Type of effect	Media example
Educational	Documentaries and books inform; misinformation confuses.
Privacy	Paparazzi and social media expose people's private lives.

2D. Quick Idea Bank (one row per category)

Category	Positive ideas / arguments FOR	Negative ideas / arguments AGAINST	Ready example
Advertising & children	• informs about new products • funds children's TV	• children cannot judge adverts • junk food, pester power	a child begging for a toy seen on TV
Consumerism	• economic growth, jobs • innovation	• debt, waste, pollution • never satisfied	a phone replaced every year
Fake news	• (none) social media gives everyone a voice	• spreads fast, causes panic and hatred	a false rumour on social media leading to violence
Bad news & objectivity	• people need to know about dangers	• anxiety, false picture of the world • bias and selection	road accidents on the front page, success stories ignored

Category	Positive ideas / arguments FOR	Negative ideas / arguments AGAINST	Ready example
Media responsibility & freedom	• free press exposes corruption	• sensationalism, bias • government censorship	journalists revealing a corruption scandal
Celebrities & role models	• inspire hard work, charity	• glamour, wealth, bad behaviour copied	a footballer who trains hard and supports charities
Privacy of famous people	• public interest when they misuse power	• harassment, family suffering	photographers following a singer's children
Social media vs traditional news	• fast, free, interactive	• unverified, echo chambers	people reading news only through Facebook
TV & children	• educational programmes	• violence, screen time, inactivity	a child watching cartoons for five hours a day
Films & streaming	• convenient, cheap, choice	• cinemas close; shared experience lost	families watching films at home instead of at the cinema
Books & e-books	• e-books: cheap, portable • paper: focus, no screen	• e-books: eye strain • paper: cost, space	a student carrying hundreds of e-books on one tablet

Category	Positive ideas / arguments FOR	Negative ideas / arguments AGAINST	Ready example
Sponsorship & marketing	• funds sports and events	• unhealthy brands linked to sport	a soft-drink company sponsoring a cricket tournament

2E. How One Idea Becomes a Full Paragraph (PEEL)

Point → Explain (why? how?) → Example → Link / Result

> বাংলায় চিন্তা (Bangla thinking)
>
> Point: ভুয়া খবর সমাজের জন্য একটি বড় হুমকি। Explain: কারণ সোশ্যাল মিডিয়ায় কোনো তথ্য যাচাই না করেই কয়েক মিনিটে হাজার হাজার মানুষের কাছে ছড়িয়ে পড়ে। Example: যেমন, কোনো এলাকা নিয়ে একটি মিথ্যা গুজব আতঙ্ক বা এমনকি সহিংসতাও সৃষ্টি করতে পারে। Link/Result: ফলে মানুষ গণমাধ্যমের ওপর আস্থা হারায় এবং সমাজে বিভেদ বাড়ে।

The same idea in English (one paragraph):

> Point: Fake news is a serious threat to society. Explain: On social media, information can reach thousands of people within minutes without being checked. Example: For example, a false rumour about a particular area can cause panic or even violence. Link: As a result, people lose trust in the media, and divisions in society grow deeper.

Count it: about 50 words from one idea. Add a second explanation (for example, why people believe and share false stories) and a second example to reach the 100–120 words that one body paragraph needs.

2F. Worked Brainstorm Demo

> Many people think that fast food companies should not be allowed to advertise, while others believe that all companies should have the right to advertise. What is your opinion?

Source: IELTS Liz · MED-16 (also in the Part 7 Question Bank)

My 5-minute notes:

```
Type: Two views + "What is your opinion?" → Discuss Both Views guide
Other view (BP1) = all companies have the right   My view (BP2) = no fast food adverts
T-I-M:  Truth → adverts show fast food as fun Influence → children eat more junk food → obesity ✓ (my reason)
        Money → companies and TV earn a lot; jobs (other view)

Intro (35–45w): While some people argue that every company should have the right to advertise, others believe that fast food firms should not.
                I completely support the latter view because these adverts
                harm children's health.
BP1 (90–120w) OTHER VIEW, no "I" – P E E X L:
   legal businesses' right to advertise; adverts fund TV and create jobs
   ex: a burger chain that cannot promote a new branch hires fewer students
   L: For this reason, many people believe that …
BP2 (90–120w) MY VIEW – P E X R L:
   their products contribute to obesity and related diseases ex: burger advert with a free toy during a cartoon → children beg daily
   R: Although some argue all legal companies deserve this right, tobacco
      advertising is banned for the same reason L: Consequently, …
Conclusion (35–45w): In conclusion, people hold different views on whether …
                     While …, I firmly believe that … because …
```

> কেন এই অবস্থান? প্রশ্নে দুটি মত আছে, তাই Discuss Both Views guide: বিপরীত মত আগে, নিজের মত শেষে, এবং একটিই স্পষ্ট মত। "শুধু শিশুদের বিজ্ঞাপন নিষেধ, কিন্তু সম্পূর্ণ নিষেধ নয়" ধরনের মাঝামাঝি অবস্থান নেবে না, কারণ এটি আংশিক উত্তর। T-I-M test-এর Money দিয়ে

> BP1 (বিপরীত মত) এবং Influence দিয়ে BP2 (তোমার মত) সাজানো হয়েছে।

2G. Essay-Type Paragraph Plans (your five essay guides)

Essay type (guide)	Introduction	Body Paragraph 1	Body Paragraph 2	Conclusion
Agree / Disagree (to what extent? / do you agree?)	35–50: paraphrase + I completely agree/disagree with this view because Idea 1 and Idea 2. Never "partly".	100–120: Idea 1 — P E E X L	100–120: Idea 2 — P E X R L (Although some people argue that …, [my side])	35–55: In conclusion, I firmly believe that … + both ideas in new words
Discuss Both Views (some think X, others think Y)	35–45: While some people argue that [other view], others believe that [my view]. I completely support the latter view because …	90–120: the view you do not support, no "I" — P E E X L	90–120: your view — P E X R L	35–45: In conclusion, people hold different views on whether … While …, I firmly believe that …

Essay type (guide)	Introduction	Body Paragraph 1	Body Paragraph 2	Conclusion
Advantages – Disadvantages	40–50: paraphrase + Although [side you do not support], [side you support] + opinion only if asked (no opinion asked: 30–40, 2 sentences)	120–135: advantages — 7 sentences (T P E X P E S)	120–135: disadvantages — 7 sentences (T P E X P E S)	35–45: While … + opinion only if asked (no opinion asked: 25–35)
Cause/Problem + Solution	30–40: paraphrase + This is mainly because C1 and C2, but S1 and S2 can tackle this problem. No opinion.	90–120: 2 causes or problems — P E X P E L	90–120: 2 solutions, each fixing one cause (WHO + WHAT + HOW)	30–40: causes + solutions in new words
Double Question (two questions)	30–40: paraphrase + [Answer 1], and [answer 2].	90–120: answer to Q1 — List block (P E X P E L) or Opinion block (P E X R L)	90–120: answer to Q2 — List or Opinion block	30–40: In conclusion, answer 1 + answer 2 in new words

Full rules: `Writing/IELTS_*_Essay_Guide.md`. Questions asking only for solutions or only for problems use the Cause/Problem + Solution guide, Section 14: one idea in each body paragraph (P E E X L), no opinion.

শব্দ ও বাক্যের পরিকল্পনা — তোমার পাঁচটি guide

- শব্দসংখ্যা: Agree / Disagree 270–345 · Discuss Both Views 260–299 · Advantages – Disadvantages 330–360 (মতামত না চাইলে 310–340) · Cause/Problem + Solution ও Double Question 260–300। সহজ হিসাব: 35 + 105 + 105 + 35 = 280।
- Introduction ও Conclusion: সবসময় 2টি বাক্য (Advantages – Disadvantages-এ মতামত চাইলে 3টি)। "This essay will..." ধরনের বাক্য কখনো লিখবে না।
- Body paragraph: প্রতিটি বাক্য গড়ে 18–22 শব্দ। Example সবসময় ঠিক আগের Explain বাক্যটিকেই দেখায়।
- সতর্কতা: Body paragraph 90 শব্দের কম হলে বুঝবে ব্যাখ্যা বা উদাহরণ যথেষ্ট নয়। আরেকটি "কেন?" বা "ফলে কী হয়?" বাক্য যোগ করো।
- Media essay-তে টিপস: নির্দিষ্ট কোম্পানি, সেলিব্রিটি বা সংবাদপত্রের নাম লিখবে না। সাধারণ উদাহরণ দাও: "a popular footballer", "a soft-drink company", "a national newspaper"।

Part 3 — Category-Wise Free Writing

Each passage below is an idea store. Read it slowly, notice how each idea is explained and supported with an example, and pay attention to the bold collocations. After each passage, try to say 4–5 of its ideas aloud in your own words.

Advertising and Children

Children today are exposed to more advertising than any previous generation. They see adverts on television, on YouTube, in mobile games, on social media and even in schools. Companies know that children influence what their families buy, and that habits formed in childhood can last a lifetime. For this reason, many people believe that advertising aimed at children should be strictly controlled or even banned.

The main concern is that children are especially vulnerable to advertising. Young children cannot easily distinguish between programmes and adverts, and they often do not understand that the purpose of an advert is to persuade them to buy something. They tend to believe what they see, so they may think that a toy will make them popular or that a snack will make them strong. As a result, they may pester their parents to buy products, which can lead to arguments and financial pressure, especially in low-income families.

Food advertising is a particular problem. Many adverts aimed at children promote fast food, sweets, sugary cereals and soft drinks, often using cartoon characters, celebrities and free toys to make them more attractive. These products are high in sugar, salt and fat, and regular consumption contributes to childhood obesity, tooth decay and other health problems. Some argue that such advertising is partly responsible for the rise in overweight children in many countries.

Advertising can also shape children's values. Constant messages that happiness comes from owning the latest toy, gadget or brand can encourage materialism. Children may judge themselves and others by what they own, and they may feel unhappy or left out if their families cannot afford advertised products.

On the other hand, some people argue that a complete ban would be unfair and unrealistic. Advertising provides important income for television channels and online platforms, which helps to fund children's programmes. Some adverts provide useful information about books, educational games or healthy products. In addition, in a world where children use the internet freely, it would be very difficult to block all advertising.

Many countries have chosen a middle path. They ban or restrict adverts for unhealthy food during children's programmes, forbid the use of cartoon characters to sell certain products, and require online platforms to protect young users. Such rules can reduce the harmful effects of advertising without completely removing it.

Parents also have a key role. They can limit their children's screen time, explain how advertising works and teach them to think critically about what they see. Schools can include media literacy in the curriculum, helping children understand persuasion techniques.

In conclusion, advertising aimed at children raises serious concerns because children are easily influenced, and many adverts promote unhealthy products and materialistic values. Strict regulation, combined with education at home and at school, is the best way to protect children while allowing responsible advertising to continue.

Advertising, Consumerism and Buying What We Don't Need

Modern economies depend heavily on consumer spending. Companies spend enormous sums every year on adverts online, on television, in magazines and on billboards, encouraging people to buy more and more products. This culture of constant buying, known as consumerism, has brought prosperity but also serious personal and environmental problems.

Consumerism has clear economic benefits. When people buy goods and services, businesses grow, factories produce more and jobs are created in manufacturing, retail, transport and advertising. Governments receive more tax income, which they can spend on public services. Competition between companies also encourages innovation, leading to better, cheaper and more convenient products. Many people today enjoy a standard of living that previous generations could only dream of, with modern appliances, smartphones and a wide variety of food and clothing.

Advertising also provides useful information. It tells consumers about new products, special offers and services that may improve their lives. It allows small businesses to reach customers and helps to fund media, including newspapers, television and free online services.

However, consumerism encourages people to buy things that they do not really need. Advertisers are skilled at creating desires, suggesting that a new phone, car or fashion item will bring happiness, success or social status. Many people replace products that still work perfectly well simply because a newer model is available. Social media influencers add to this pressure by constantly showing new purchases.

There are several reasons why people buy things they do not need. Some want to keep up with friends and neighbours or to show their status. Others shop to relieve stress or boredom. Easy credit, online shopping and constant special offers make spending quick and convenient, while advertising makes people feel that they are always missing something.

The negative effects are significant. Many people fall into debt through credit cards and loans, which can cause stress and family problems. Excessive buying also creates huge amounts of waste, including clothes worn only a few times, broken electronics and plastic packaging. Producing so many goods uses large amounts of energy, water and raw materials, contributing to pollution and climate change. Moreover, buying more does not necessarily make people happier; many people feel empty or dissatisfied despite owning many possessions.

To reduce these problems, individuals can become more conscious consumers, asking themselves whether they really need a product before buying it, and choosing durable, repairable goods. Governments can regulate misleading advertising, encourage recycling and repair, and educate people about financial management. Businesses can also promote sustainable products.

In conclusion, consumerism supports economic growth and offers people many choices, but it also leads to debt, waste and environmental damage. A more balanced approach, in which people buy less but better, would benefit both individuals and the planet.

Fake News and Misinformation

The internet and social media have made it easier than ever to share information. Unfortunately, they have also made it easier to spread fake news: false or misleading stories presented as real news. Fake news can be created deliberately to deceive people, attract attention, earn money from advertising or achieve political goals. It has become one of the most serious problems of the digital age.

There are several reasons why fake news spreads so quickly. On social media, anyone can publish information without checking whether it is true. Stories that are shocking, emotional or frightening attract more clicks, likes and shares, and social media algorithms often show such content to more people. Many users share stories without reading them fully or checking the source, especially if the story matches what they already believe. Messaging apps allow rumours to spread rapidly through family and friend groups, where people tend to trust what they receive.

The consequences of fake news can be very serious. False rumours have caused panic, for example about food shortages or disease outbreaks, leading people to hoard goods or avoid medical treatment. In some cases, rumours spread on social media have led to violence against innocent people. Health misinformation, such as false claims about vaccines or miracle cures, can put lives at risk.

Fake news also damages trust in the media and in institutions. When people are exposed to many false stories, they may begin to doubt all news, including accurate reporting by professional journalists. This makes it harder for societies to agree on basic facts and to make good decisions. During elections, fake news can be used to influence voters and divide communities.

Tackling fake news requires action from several groups. Social media companies have a major responsibility. They can use technology and human reviewers to identify and remove false information, label misleading content and reduce the spread of stories from unreliable sources. They should also be transparent about how their algorithms work.

Governments can support independent fact-checking organisations and introduce laws against the deliberate spreading of harmful lies. However, they must be careful not to use such laws to silence criticism or limit freedom of speech, which is essential in a democracy.

Perhaps the most important solution is media literacy. Schools should teach students how to evaluate sources, check facts and recognise manipulation. Adults can be encouraged, through public campaigns, to pause before sharing and to verify information using trusted news organisations.

In conclusion, fake news spreads quickly because of social media, emotional content and a lack of verification, and it can cause panic, violence and loss of trust. By combining responsible technology companies, careful government action and better media education, societies can limit the spread of misinformation.

News Values: Bad News, Objectivity and Photographs

News plays a vital role in society by informing people about events that affect their lives. However, many people notice that most news is negative, focusing on wars, disasters, accidents and crime. There are also debates about whether news can ever be completely objective, and whether photographs used in the news are reliable.

There are several reasons why bad news dominates. Firstly, negative events are often urgent and important. People need to know about natural disasters, disease outbreaks, conflicts and crimes so that they can protect themselves and respond. Secondly, bad news attracts attention. Humans naturally pay more attention to danger, and dramatic or shocking stories attract more viewers, readers and clicks. Because news organisations depend on audiences for advertising income, they have a commercial incentive to focus on such stories.

However, constant negative news can have harmful effects. It can make people anxious, fearful and pessimistic, and some people stop following the news altogether. It can also create a distorted picture of the world, making things seem worse than they are, even when health, education and living standards are improving. Many people therefore argue that the news should include a better balance of good and bad stories, such as scientific achievements, acts of kindness and successful community projects.

Objectivity is another important issue. Ideally, news should report facts accurately and fairly, without the journalist's personal opinions. In reality, complete objectivity is difficult. Journalists and editors must choose which stories to cover, which facts to include and which words to use, and these choices can reflect their own views or those of the owners. Some news organisations openly support particular political parties. This is why it is important for readers to use several sources and to distinguish between news reports and opinion articles.

The main function of a newspaper or news channel is to inform the public accurately. A free press also plays a watchdog role, investigating corruption and holding powerful people accountable. Good journalism helps citizens make informed decisions, especially during elections.

Photographs are widely used to support news stories, because they make news more powerful and believable. A single image of a flood or a war can communicate more emotion than many paragraphs. However, photographs are not always reliable. They can be edited digitally, taken out of context, or chosen to present only one side of a story. With modern technology, even video can be faked. Therefore, while photographs are valuable evidence, they should be checked and accompanied by accurate information.

In conclusion, bad news dominates because it is important and attracts attention, but a better balance would give people a more accurate view of the world. News can never be perfectly objective, and even photographs can mislead, so both journalists and readers must be careful and critical.

Media Responsibility and Press Freedom

The media, including newspapers, television, radio and online news platforms, has enormous power to shape public opinion. It decides which issues people talk about and how those issues are presented. With this power comes great responsibility. At the same time, a free media is essential for democracy, which raises questions about how much control governments should have over the press.

A responsible media should report accurately and fairly. Journalists should check their facts, use reliable sources, correct mistakes and present different points of view on controversial issues. They should avoid sensationalism, which means exaggerating stories to attract attention, and they should respect people's privacy and dignity, especially victims of crime, children and grieving families.

The media also has a responsibility to inform and educate the public. It can raise awareness of important social issues, such as health, the environment, poverty and corruption. Investigative journalism can expose wrongdoing by politicians, businesses and other powerful groups, which helps to hold them accountable. In this way, the press is often described as a "watchdog" of democracy.

However, the media does not always meet these standards. Commercial pressure can lead news organisations to focus on celebrity gossip, scandals and dramatic stories rather than serious issues. Some media outlets are owned by wealthy individuals or political groups who use them to promote their own interests. Biased reporting can mislead the public and increase divisions in society. On social media, the line between journalism and personal opinion has become increasingly unclear.

The media also has a special responsibility during emergencies, such as floods, cyclones or disease outbreaks. Accurate and calm reporting can save lives by telling people where to find help and how to stay safe, while exaggerated or false reports can cause panic. Responsible broadcasters work closely with experts and official agencies to share reliable information quickly.

This leads to the question of government control. Some people argue that governments should regulate the media more strictly to prevent false information, hate speech and invasions of privacy. Certain rules, such as laws against defamation and incitement to violence, are necessary. However, too much government control is dangerous. In some countries, governments use censorship to silence critics, close independent newspapers and imprison journalists. When the press is not free, citizens cannot learn the truth about their leaders, and corruption can grow.

The best approach is a balance between freedom and responsibility. The media should be free from political interference, but journalists should follow strong professional and ethical codes. Independent press councils, rather than governments, can handle complaints and ensure standards. Media owners should be transparent, and audiences should support quality journalism.

Citizens also have a role. By choosing reliable news sources, reading critically and rejecting sensational or false stories, the public can encourage responsible journalism.

In conclusion, the media has a responsibility to report truthfully, fairly and in the public interest. While some regulation is necessary, press freedom must be protected, because an independent media is essential for democracy and accountability.

Celebrities, Influencers and Role Models

In the past, people usually became famous because of their achievements, such as scientific discoveries, artistic talent, sporting success or leadership. Today, many people become famous through television, social media and online videos, sometimes simply because of their appearance, wealth or lifestyle. Celebrities and social media influencers have a huge influence on young people, which raises questions about whether they are good role models.

Many people believe that celebrities today are famous more for their glamour and wealth than for their achievements. Reality television stars and influencers often show expensive clothes, cars, holidays and luxurious lifestyles. Young people who follow them may come to believe that money, fame and appearance are the most important things in life. This can encourage materialism and unrealistic expectations, and some young people may feel unhappy because they cannot achieve such lifestyles.

Celebrities can also set a bad example through their behaviour. When famous people are involved in drug use, violence, cheating or rude behaviour, young fans may think such behaviour is acceptable or even attractive. Influencers sometimes promote unhealthy diets, dangerous challenges or products without proper information.

However, many celebrities are positive role models. Sports stars show that success requires hard work, discipline and teamwork. Musicians and actors can inspire creativity, and many famous people use their influence to support charities, raise awareness of social issues and encourage young people to study or protect the environment. A footballer from a poor background who becomes successful can show young people that determination can overcome difficulties.

Because young children often idolise sports people and entertainers, many believe that celebrities have a responsibility to behave well at all times. Their actions are widely reported, and children copy them. Others argue that celebrities are ordinary human beings who did not choose to be role models, and that they should be judged mainly by their professional performance. Parents and teachers, rather than celebrities, should be children's main role models.

In reality, both sides have a point. Celebrities cannot be perfect, but because they benefit from public attention and money from fans and sponsors, they should accept some responsibility to behave decently in public. Sports organisations and companies can also encourage good behaviour through codes of conduct.

Parents and schools play the most important role. They can help young people think critically about celebrity culture, understand that social media images are often edited and unrealistic, and choose role models based on values and achievements rather than fame. Highlighting real-life heroes, such as doctors, scientists, teachers and community leaders, can provide more meaningful examples.

In conclusion, celebrities and influencers can be both positive and negative role models. While some promote glamour and poor behaviour, others inspire hard work and generosity. Young people should be taught to look beyond fame and to admire people for their character and achievements.

Privacy of Famous People

Famous people, such as film stars, singers, sports players and politicians, attract a great deal of public attention. Newspapers, magazines, websites and photographers, known as paparazzi, often follow them closely, reporting on their relationships, families, health and daily activities. Some people believe that famous people should have no right to privacy, while others argue that everyone, however famous, deserves a private life.

Those who believe that celebrities should accept media attention give several reasons. Firstly, many celebrities actively seek publicity to build their careers. They use the media to promote their films, music or products and benefit financially from their fame. Therefore, some argue, they cannot complain when the media also reports on their private lives. Secondly, the public is genuinely interested in the lives of famous people, and celebrity news sells newspapers and attracts online readers.

There are also cases where reporting on private matters is in the public interest. If a politician is corrupt, lies to the public or behaves in a way that contradicts their public promises, journalists have a duty to expose this. Similarly, if a celebrity who promotes a healthy lifestyle is secretly involved in drug use, reporting this may be justified because it affects how the public sees their message.

However, there are strong arguments for protecting the privacy of famous people. Celebrities are human beings who need personal space, just like everyone else. Constant attention from photographers and journalists can cause stress, anxiety and depression. In some tragic cases, intense press pursuit has contributed to serious accidents and mental health crises. Being followed everywhere, having private conversations published or seeing false rumours in the media can make normal life almost impossible.

The families of famous people, particularly their children, are also affected. These children did not choose to be famous, yet they may be photographed at school or in the park and have their lives discussed publicly. This can damage their safety and emotional well-being.

Moreover, much celebrity reporting is not in the public interest; it is simply gossip. Stories about who a star is dating or what they wore to the supermarket do not help the public make important decisions. Such reporting is mainly driven by profit.

The best approach is to distinguish between public interest and public curiosity. The media should be free to report on the professional activities of famous people and on any behaviour that affects the public, such as corruption or hypocrisy. However, their private relationships, health, homes and families should be protected unless there is a genuine public interest. Laws against harassment and the publication of photographs taken in private places can help, as can strong ethical codes for journalists.

In conclusion, famous people inevitably receive more attention than ordinary citizens, and some reporting on their lives is justified. However, they still deserve a basic right to privacy, especially regarding their families and personal lives.

Social Media versus Traditional News

The way people receive news has changed dramatically in recent years. In the past, most people relied on newspapers, radio and television. Today, a growing number of people, especially young people, get their news mainly from social media platforms and online websites. This shift has brought both advantages and serious challenges.

Social media offers several advantages as a news source. It is fast: news can be shared within seconds of an event happening, often with photos and videos from people at the scene. It is usually free and available on mobile phones anywhere. Social media also allows ordinary people to share information and opinions, giving a voice to groups that traditional media may ignore. During natural disasters or protests, citizens' posts can provide valuable information when journalists are not present.

Online news is also interactive. Readers can comment, discuss and share stories, and they can choose the topics they are most interested in. Many traditional newspapers and TV channels now have websites and social media accounts, combining professional journalism with the speed of the internet.

However, social media has serious weaknesses as a source of news. The biggest problem is reliability. Anyone can post information, and much of it is not checked. As a result, rumours, fake news and propaganda spread easily. People may find it difficult to tell the difference between professional journalism and personal opinion or deliberate lies.

Another issue is the echo chamber effect. Social media algorithms show users content similar to what they have already liked or shared. Over time, people may see only news that confirms their existing views, which can increase division and reduce understanding of different perspectives.

Short posts and headlines also encourage quick reading rather than deep understanding of complex issues.

Traditional media, such as newspapers and television news, usually employ professional journalists and editors who check facts and follow ethical standards. They provide more in-depth analysis, investigative reporting and balanced coverage. However, traditional media also has weaknesses: it can be slower, may be influenced by owners or advertisers, and many newspapers are struggling financially as readers move online.

Radio is an interesting case. Some people predict that online media will make radio disappear. However, radio remains popular because people can listen while driving, working or cooking, and it is important in rural areas and during emergencies when electricity or internet access is limited. Many radio stations now broadcast online as podcasts, adapting to new technology.

In conclusion, social media has made news faster, cheaper and more interactive, but it has also made it less reliable. The best approach is to combine sources, using social media for quick updates while relying on trusted professional news organisations to verify information and provide deeper understanding.

Television and Children's Behaviour

Television has been a major part of family life for decades, and today children also watch programmes on tablets and smartphones through streaming services and video platforms. Many parents and teachers are concerned about how television affects children's behaviour. Some people believe that the content children watch is the main influence, while others think that the amount of time spent watching is more important.

Those who focus on content argue that children learn by imitation. Young children often copy the words, actions and attitudes they see on screen. If they watch programmes that show violence, rudeness or dangerous stunts, they may repeat this behaviour at home or at school. Cartoons and films that present violence as funny or heroic may make children less sensitive to the suffering of others. On the other hand, high-quality programmes can teach children positive values, such as kindness, cooperation and respect, as well as knowledge about science, nature and languages.

Advertising is also part of television content. Adverts aimed at children can influence their desires, eating habits and attitudes towards possessions, encouraging them to ask for junk food and expensive toys.

Others argue that the amount of time spent watching is the bigger problem, regardless of content. Children who watch television for many hours a day spend less time playing outside, reading, talking with family and making friends. This can affect their physical health, leading to inactivity and weight gain, and their development, including language skills, imagination and concentration. Watching screens late in the evening can also disturb sleep, leaving children tired and irritable the next day.

Excessive screen time may also reduce children's ability to concentrate on slower activities, such as reading a book or listening in class, because television offers constant stimulation. In addition, when children watch television alone in their rooms, parents may not know what they are watching.

In reality, both content and time are important, and they are connected. Even excellent educational programmes can be harmful if children watch them for many hours instead of being active and social. At the same time, a short amount of violent or inappropriate content can have a negative influence.

Parents play the key role in managing television use. They can choose suitable, age-appropriate programmes, set clear limits on daily screen time and keep televisions and devices out of children's bedrooms. Watching programmes together and discussing them helps children understand what they see. Television channels and streaming services can support parents through age ratings, parental controls and responsible scheduling.

In conclusion, both what children watch and how long they watch affect their behaviour. Careful choice of content, reasonable time limits and active parental involvement can ensure that television becomes a positive tool for learning and entertainment rather than a harmful influence.

Films, Cinema and Streaming Services

Films have been one of the most popular forms of entertainment for more than a century. Traditionally, people watched new films in cinemas, sharing the experience with friends, families and strangers in a large dark hall. Today, online streaming services allow people to watch thousands of films and series at home, on televisions, laptops and phones. Some people believe that cinemas will eventually close because of this trend.

Streaming services have many advantages. They are convenient: viewers can watch whenever and wherever they like, pause and replay scenes, and choose from a huge library of content. They are often cheaper than regular cinema visits, especially for families, because a single monthly subscription allows unlimited viewing. Streaming also gives audiences access to films and series from many countries, which can broaden their cultural understanding. For filmmakers, streaming platforms provide new opportunities to reach global audiences without traditional distribution networks.

However, cinemas offer an experience that home viewing cannot fully replace. The big screen, powerful sound systems and immersive atmosphere make films, especially action and fantasy films, more exciting and memorable. Going to the cinema is also a social activity; friends and families go out together, share reactions and talk about the film afterwards. For many people, it is a special occasion rather than just a way to watch a story. In addition, people watching at home are often distracted by phones, housework and interruptions.

For these reasons, cinemas are unlikely to disappear completely, although they may need to change. Many cinemas now offer luxury seats, 3D and IMAX screens, food and drink services and special events to attract audiences. Major films are often released in cinemas first, which encourages people to visit. However, smaller cinemas, especially in towns with limited audiences, may struggle to survive.

Streaming has also changed the film industry in other ways. Local and independent filmmakers can now reach international audiences, and viewers can discover films in many languages with subtitles. At the same time, the huge choice available online can make it harder for small films to be noticed, and some people worry that watching alone at home reduces the shared cultural experience that cinema once provided.

Another debate concerns historical films. Some people believe that films based on real historical events should be completely accurate. Accuracy is important because many people learn about history mainly from films, and inaccurate portrayals can spread false ideas about real people and events. On the other hand, films are works of art and entertainment, not documentaries. Filmmakers often need to simplify events, combine characters or add dialogue to create an engaging story. A reasonable approach is for films to remain faithful to the main facts while clearly stating when parts of the story have been changed or imagined.

In conclusion, streaming services have transformed how people watch films, offering convenience and choice. However, cinemas still provide a unique social and visual experience, so they are likely to adapt rather than disappear. Meanwhile, historical films should balance entertainment with respect for the truth.

Books, E-books and Reading

For centuries, books have been a major source of knowledge and entertainment. Today, however, people have many other options, such as television, the internet, social media, video games and podcasts. At the same time, digital technology has introduced e-books, which can be read on tablets, phones and e-readers. Some people believe that books are losing their importance and that e-books will eventually replace paper books.

It is true that many people, especially young people, spend less time reading books than in the past. For quick information, people often search online rather than consult a book, and for entertainment, many prefer videos and games, which require less concentration. Short social media posts have also changed reading habits, making it harder for some people to focus on long texts.

However, books still offer unique benefits. Reading a book requires deep concentration and imagination, which helps to develop vocabulary, critical thinking and empathy. Novels allow readers to experience other people's lives and emotions, while non-fiction books provide detailed, well-organised knowledge that is often more reliable than random online information. Many people also read to relax and escape from the stress of daily life. For these reasons, books remain important in education and in personal development.

E-books have several advantages. They are often cheaper than paper books, and some are free. A single device can store thousands of books, which is convenient for travellers and students. E-books can be bought and downloaded instantly, and readers can adjust the font size, which helps people with poor eyesight. They also save paper and storage space.

Nevertheless, many people still prefer paper books. They enjoy the feel and smell of real pages, find it easier to concentrate without the distractions of notifications, and do not suffer from eye strain caused by screens. Paper books do not need batteries and can be shared, lent or kept as part of a personal library. The continued sales of printed books suggest that paper books are not disappearing.

Reading habits often begin in childhood. Children who are read to by their parents and who have access to books at home and at school usually develop stronger language skills and a lasting love of reading. Encouraging reading for pleasure, through school libraries, book clubs and reading competitions, is therefore one of the best ways to ensure that books remain important for future generations.

Libraries are also adapting. Some people believe libraries should focus on technology and digital resources rather than paper books. Digital resources make information accessible to more people, but libraries also provide a quiet place to study, free access for people who cannot afford books or devices, and community activities. A balance between digital and printed collections is likely to serve the public best.

In conclusion, books face strong competition from digital entertainment, and e-books are becoming more popular. However, reading remains valuable, and paper books and e-books are likely to coexist, each meeting different needs and preferences.

Sponsorship and Marketing

Marketing and advertising are essential tools for businesses. Companies promote their products through television adverts, social media campaigns, billboards and sponsorship of sports, music and cultural events. Some people believe that marketing is the key to business success, while others think that a good product will sell without much promotion.

Sports sponsorship is a common form of marketing. Companies pay large sums to have their names on players' shirts, stadiums and tournaments. This brings clear benefits to sport. Sponsorship money can fund better facilities, pay players and support young athletes and grassroots clubs. Without sponsors, many tournaments and teams could not exist, and ticket prices would be higher. For companies, sponsorship links their brand with popular events and positive values such as teamwork and success.

However, sports sponsorship also has disadvantages. Some sponsors sell products that are harmful to health, such as fast food, sugary drinks or, in some countries, alcohol and gambling services. When these brands are associated with sport, which is supposed to promote health, young fans may receive confusing messages. There is also a risk that sponsors gain too much influence over sporting decisions, such as match times or player choices, putting profit before the interests of sport and fans.

Similar debates exist about advertising unhealthy products. Some people believe that fast food companies should not be allowed to advertise, just as tobacco advertising is banned in many countries, because their products contribute to obesity and related diseases. Others argue that all legal businesses should have the right to advertise, and that adults should be free to make their own choices. A balanced approach might involve banning such adverts during children's programmes and requiring clear nutritional information.

Social media has transformed marketing. Companies now pay influencers to promote their products, often in ways that look like personal recommendations rather than adverts. This can be effective, but it raises concerns about honesty, especially when young followers do not realise that the influencer is being paid. Many countries now require influencers to clearly label sponsored content.

Is marketing really the key to business success? Marketing certainly helps businesses to reach customers, build brand recognition and compete with rivals. Large companies with big marketing budgets can dominate markets, making it difficult for small local businesses to compete, even if their products are good. However, marketing alone cannot guarantee long-term success. If a product is poor quality or overpriced, customers will not buy it again, and negative reviews spread quickly online. Product quality, good customer service, fair prices and innovation are equally important.

Even an excellent product needs some promotion, because customers cannot buy something they do not know exists. However, word of mouth and online reviews can be powerful forms of free advertising for products that genuinely meet customers' needs.

In conclusion, marketing and sponsorship bring important benefits, including funding for sport and greater visibility for businesses. However, they must be used responsibly, especially for unhealthy products.

Ultimately, business success depends on combining effective marketing with genuinely good products and services.

Part 4 — Vocabulary & Collocation Bank

Learn 10–15 items per day. For each item, say the collocation aloud and write one sentence of your own.

Advertising and consumers

Word / Phrase	বাংলা অর্থ	Useful collocations	Example sentence
advertisement / advert / commercial (n)	বিজ্ঞাপন	run / show an advert; TV commercials	Companies run adverts during popular programmes.
advertising campaign (n)	বিজ্ঞাপন প্রচারণা	launch an advertising campaign	The company launched a new advertising campaign.
target (v)	লক্ষ্য করা	adverts targeted at / aimed at children	Many adverts are aimed at children.
persuade (v)	প্ররোচিত করা	persuade people to buy	Adverts persuade people to buy things they do not need.
pester power (n)	বায়না ধরে কেনানোর ক্ষমতা	use pester power	Advertisers rely on children's pester power.
consumerism (n)	ভোগবাদ	a culture of consumerism	A culture of consumerism creates waste.

Word / Phrase	বাংলা অর্থ	Useful collocations	Example sentence
materialism / materialistic (n/adj)	বস্তুবাদ / বস্তুবাদী	encourage materialism	Constant advertising encourages materialism.
impulse buying (n)	হঠাৎ ঝোঁকে কেনা	lead to impulse buying	Online offers lead to impulse buying.
brand loyalty (n)	নির্দিষ্ট ব্র্যান্ডের প্রতি আনুগত্য	build brand loyalty	Companies try to build brand loyalty early.
misleading (adj)	বিভ্রান্তিকর	misleading adverts / claims	Misleading adverts should be banned.
sponsorship (n)	পৃষ্ঠপোষকতা	corporate sponsorship of sport	Corporate sponsorship of sport is very common.

News and journalism

Word / Phrase	বাংলা অর্থ	Useful collocations	Example sentence
the media / the press (n)	গণমাধ্যম / সংবাদমাধ্যম	freedom of the press; the mass media	Freedom of the press is essential in a democracy.
news outlet (n)	সংবাদমাধ্যম প্রতিষ্ঠান	a reliable / national news outlet	Check stories with a reliable news outlet.
journalist / reporter (n)	সাংবাদিক	investigative journalist	Investigative journalists exposed the scandal.

Word / Phrase	বাংলা অর্থ	Useful collocations	Example sentence headline (n)	শিরোনাম	make / hit the headlines	The accident made the headlines.
objective / biased (adj)	নিরপেক্ষ / পক্ষপাতদুষ্ট	objective reporting; biased coverage	News should be objective, not biased.
sensationalism (n)	চাঞ্চল্য সৃষ্টির প্রবণতা	avoid sensationalism	Responsible newspapers avoid sensationalism.
coverage (n)	সংবাদ পরিবেশন	extensive / balanced coverage	The election received extensive coverage.
hold … accountable	জবাবদিহির আওতায় আনা	hold politicians accountable	A free press holds politicians accountable.
censorship (n)	সংবাদ নিয়ন্ত্রণ / নিষেধাজ্ঞা	government censorship	Government censorship limits free speech.
public interest (n)	জনস্বার্থ	in the public interest	Reporting corruption is in the public interest.

Fake news and social media

Word / Phrase	বাংলা অর্থ	Useful collocations	Example sentence
fake news / misinformation (n)	ভুয়া খবর / ভুল তথ্য	spread / tackle misinformation	Social media spreads misinformation quickly.

Word / Phrase	বাংলা অর্থ	Useful collocations	Example sentence
rumour (n)	গুজব	spread / believe a rumour	A false rumour caused panic in the town.
go viral	দ্রুত ছড়িয়ে পড়া	a video goes viral	The fake video went viral within hours.
verify / fact-check (v)	যাচাই করা	verify information; fact-check a story	Always verify information before sharing it.
reliable source (n)	নির্ভরযোগ্য উৎস	a trustworthy / reliable source	Use reliable sources for your research.
algorithm (n)	অ্যালগরিদম (কম্পিউটার নিয়ম)	social media algorithms	Algorithms show us content we already like.
echo chamber (n)	একই মতের বলয়	live in an echo chamber	Many users live in an echo chamber online.
media literacy (n)	গণমাধ্যম বোঝার দক্ষতা	teach / improve media literacy	Schools should teach media literacy.

Celebrities and privacy

Word / Phrase	বাংলা অর্থ	Useful collocations	Example sentence
celebrity / public figure (n)	তারকা / পরিচিত ব্যক্তি	a famous celebrity; public figures	Public figures attract media attention.

Word / Phrase	বাংলা অর্থ	Useful collocations	Example sentence
influencer (n)	সোশ্যাল মিডিয়া প্রভাবশালী ব্যক্তি	social media influencers	Influencers promote products to young people.
role model (n)	আদর্শ	a good / positive role model	Sports stars should be good role models.
idolise (v)	আদর্শ মানা / ভক্তি করা	idolise famous people	Children often idolise footballers.
invade / invasion of privacy	গোপনীয়তা লঙ্ঘন	an invasion of privacy	Photographing children is an invasion of privacy.
paparazzi (n)	তারকাদের পিছু নেওয়া ফটোগ্রাফার	be hounded by the paparazzi	The singer was hounded by the paparazzi.
gossip (n)	পরচর্চা / গুজব	celebrity gossip	Celebrity gossip sells magazines.

Entertainment, children and reading

Word / Phrase	বাংলা অর্থ	Useful collocations	Example sentence
screen time (n)	স্ক্রিনের সামনে কাটানো সময়	limit / reduce screen time	Parents should limit children's screen time.
age-appropriate (adj)	বয়স উপযোগী	age-appropriate content	Children should watch age-appropriate content.

Word / Phrase	বাংলা অর্থ	Useful collocations	Example sentence
violent content (n)	সহিংস বিষয়বস্তু	be exposed to violent content	Children are exposed to violent content online.
streaming service (n)	স্ট্রিমিং সেবা	subscribe to a streaming service	Many families subscribe to a streaming service.
e-book / paper book (n)	ই-বুক / ছাপা বই	read e-books on a tablet	She reads e-books on her tablet.
documentary (n)	প্রামাণ্যচিত্র	an educational documentary	We watched an educational documentary about wildlife.

Useful phrases for positive and negative ideas

Positive phrases	Negative phrases
raise public awareness of	spread like wildfire
keep the public informed	mislead the public inspire young people to	set a bad example to a watchdog of democracy	profit comes before people
broaden people's horizons	create unrealistic expectations
provide a platform for	damage trust in the media

Part 5 — Sentence Structure Toolkit

> Paragraph mix formula: প্রতিটি body paragraph-এ রাখার চেষ্টা করো → 1টি long simple + 1–2টি compound + 2–3টি complex + 1টি compound-complex sentence। 5–6টি বাক্য × গড়ে 20 শব্দ = 100–120 words।

1. Long simple sentence (rich noun phrase)

Formula: [long noun phrase] + verb + object একটাই clause, কিন্তু subject-টা বড় ও তথ্যপূর্ণ।

- The rapid spread of false stories on social media platforms has damaged public trust in the news.
- Colourful television adverts for sugary snacks and soft drinks encourage unhealthy eating among children.

2. Compound with and / but / so / yet

- Advertising supports the economy, but it also encourages waste.
- Children cannot recognise persuasion, so they are easily influenced by adverts.

3. Compound with semicolon + linker

- Social media is fast; however, it is often unreliable.
- Celebrities are idolised by children; therefore, they should behave responsibly.

4. Complex — concession (Although / Even though / While)

- Although streaming is convenient, cinemas offer a unique shared experience.
- Even though advertising funds free content, it can manipulate consumers.

5. Complex — reason (Because / Since / As)

- Since shocking stories attract more viewers, the news often focuses on disasters.
- Because fake news spreads quickly, it can cause panic before it is corrected.

6. Complex — condition (If / Unless / Provided that)

- If people checked sources before sharing, fake news would spread more slowly.
- Unless advertising to children is regulated, childhood obesity will continue to rise.

7. Relative clause (which / who / where / whose)

- Influencers who promote unhealthy diets can harm young followers.
- Many children watch adverts for fast food, which contributes to obesity.

8. Compound-complex

Formula: Although/Because/If + clause, Clause A, and/but Clause B

- Although celebrities did not choose to be role models, children copy them, and this gives them a responsibility.

- If journalists check their facts, readers trust them, and the media becomes more powerful.

9. Participle phrase

- Exposed to constant advertising, children want more and more products.
- Shared thousands of times, a false rumour can quickly become "truth" in people's minds.

10. Not only … but also …

- Fake news not only misleads people but also damages trust in real journalism.
- Sponsorship not only funds sport but also promotes the sponsor's brand.

11. The more …, the more …

- The more adverts children see, the more they ask their parents to buy.
- The more shocking a story is, the faster it spreads online.

12. Cleft sentence (emphasis)

- It is the speed of social media, not the internet itself, that makes fake news so dangerous.
- What children need is guidance on how to understand advertising.

13. Impersonal passive

- It is often argued that the media focuses too much on bad news.

- It is widely believed that advertising encourages people to buy unnecessary products.

14. Contrasting views

- While some people believe that celebrities deserve privacy, others argue that fame comes with public attention.
- While traditional newspapers check facts, social media posts often do not.

15. Result / consequence

- Many news outlets depend on advertising, which means that they compete for clicks.
- Adverts make children want junk food. As a result, family arguments become common.

Part 6 — Bangla → English Translation Essays

How to Translate These Essays

অনুবাদের ৭টি ধাপ

1. পুরো অনুচ্ছেদটি আগে পড়ো। প্রতিটি শব্দ নয়, মূল idea-টা বোঝো।
2. Tag দেখো (Simple / Compound / Complex / Compound-Complex)। লেখার আগেই ঠিক করো ইংরেজি বাক্যটির গঠন কেমন হবে।
3. সঠিক linker বেছে নাও: যদিও → Although, কারণ / যেহেতু → because / since, যদি → If, যা / যে → which / that, যখন → When, ফলে → As a result, উদাহরণস্বরূপ → For example।
4. Word Bank ব্যবহার করো। প্রতিটি essay-র আগে দেওয়া শব্দগুলোর মধ্যে অন্তত ৪টি ব্যবহার করার চেষ্টা করো।
5. Word target মেনে চলো: প্রতিটি heading-এর পাশে লেখা শব্দসংখ্যা অনুবাদের পর গুনে দেখো। কম হলে বাক্যে ব্যাখ্যা বা উদাহরণ যোগ করো।
6. Grammar যাচাই করো: tense, subject–verb agreement (the news is — "news" singular!; the media are / is), এবং article (the media, the news)।
7. শব্দে শব্দে অনুবাদ করবে না। অর্থটা স্বাভাবিক ইংরেজিতে প্রকাশ করো। ঘড়ি ধরো: প্রতিটি essay 40 মিনিটে।

Essay 1 — Agree / Disagree

> One of the prime times for advertising on TV is when children get back from school. Some people think that advertisements aimed at children should not be allowed. What is your opinion?

Source: IELTS Liz · MED-11 · Common topic ★ Advertising influence on children

Essay type: Agree / Disagree · Position: I completely agree.
অবস্থান: আমি সম্পূর্ণ একমত — শিশুরা সহজেই প্রভাবিত হয় এবং অনেক বিজ্ঞাপন অস্বাস্থ্যকর খাবারের প্রচার করে।
কাঠামো: IELTS_Agree_Disagree_Essay_Guide.md অনুযায়ী — শুরু থেকে শেষ পর্যন্ত একটিই স্পষ্ট পক্ষ, কখনো আংশিক উত্তর নয়। মোট 270–345 শব্দ।

পরিকল্পনা (Plan)

- Introduction (35–50): প্রশ্নের paraphrase → I completely agree + Idea 1 (শিশুরা সহজেই প্রভাবিত) + Idea 2 (অস্বাস্থ্যকর খাবারের প্রচার)।
- Body Paragraph 1 (100–120) — Idea 1: বিজ্ঞাপনের উদ্দেশ্য বোঝে না → screen-এ যা দেখে তা-ই চায় → উদাহরণ: cereal-এর জন্য বায়না ধরা সাত বছরের শিশু → ছোট দর্শককে লক্ষ্য করা অন্যায্য।
- Body Paragraph 2 (100–120) — Idea 2: কার্টুন ও খেলনা দিয়ে fast food আকর্ষণীয় → উদাহরণ: প্রতি বিকেলে burger-এর বিজ্ঞাপন দেখা শিশু → Response: কোম্পানির ক্ষতি, কিন্তু শিশুর স্বাস্থ্য বেশি জরুরি → কঠোর নিয়ম।
- Conclusion (35–55): In conclusion, I firmly believe… → Idea 1 ও Idea 2 নতুন শব্দে।

Fixed openers: I completely agree/disagree with this view because… · The main reason why I agree/disagree with this idea is that… · This is because... · ...; as a result, ... · For example, ... · Therefore, ... · Another important reason for my agreement/disagreement is that... · When... · For instance, ... · Although some people argue that..., ... · Consequently, ... · In conclusion, I firmly believe that...

Word Bank for this essay

adverts aimed at children	easily influenced	persuade them to buy
a sugary cereal	arguments and stress	young viewers
unhealthy food	cartoon characters and free toys	eating habits
obesity	protect children's health	strict rules

Introduction (35–50 words)

অনেক কোম্পানি বিকেলে, যখন শিশুরা স্কুল থেকে বাড়ি ফেরে, তখন টেলিভিশনে বিজ্ঞাপন দেখায়, এবং কেউ কেউ মনে করেন যে শিশুদের লক্ষ্য করে তৈরি বিজ্ঞাপন নিষিদ্ধ করা উচিত। Compound-Complex আমি এই মতের সাথে সম্পূর্ণ একমত, কারণ শিশুরা সহজেই প্রভাবিত হয় এবং অনেক বিজ্ঞাপন অস্বাস্থ্যকর খাবারের প্রচার করে। Compound-Complex

Body Paragraph 1 — Idea 1 (100–120 words)

এই ধারণার সাথে আমার একমত হওয়ার প্রধান কারণ হলো, ছোট শিশুরা সহজেই প্রভাবিত (easily influenced) হয়। Complex এর কারণ হলো, শিশুরা প্রায়ই বোঝে না যে বিজ্ঞাপনের উদ্দেশ্য হলো তাদের কিছু কিনতে রাজি করানো। Complex তারা screen-এ যা দেখে তা-ই বিশ্বাস করে; ফলে বিজ্ঞাপনে দেখানো প্রতিটি খেলনা, খাবার বা game তারা চাইতে পারে। Compound-Complex উদাহরণস্বরূপ, চিনিযুক্ত cereal-এর একটি কার্টুন

বিজ্ঞাপন দেখা সাত বছরের একটি শিশু পরদিন বাবা-মায়ের কাছে সেটি কেনার জন্য বায়না ধরতে পারে, এবং এতে পরিবারে ঝগড়া ও মানসিক চাপ তৈরি হতে পারে। Compound-Complex তাই এত ছোট দর্শকদের লক্ষ্য করে কোম্পানিগুলোর বিজ্ঞাপন দেওয়া অন্যায্য। Simple

Body Paragraph 2 — Idea 2 (100–120 words)

আমার একমত হওয়ার আরেকটি গুরুত্বপূর্ণ কারণ হলো, অনেক বিজ্ঞাপন অস্বাস্থ্যকর খাবারের প্রচার করে। Complex Fast food, মিষ্টি ও কোমল পানীয়ের বিজ্ঞাপন যখন কার্টুন চরিত্র ও বিনামূল্যের খেলনা নিয়ে আসে, তখন এই পণ্যগুলো ছোট দর্শকদের কাছে আকর্ষণীয় ও মজার মনে হয়। Complex যেমন, যে শিশু প্রতি বিকেলে burger-এর বিজ্ঞাপন দেখে, সে সপ্তাহে কয়েকবার fast food চাইতে পারে, যা অস্বাস্থ্যকর খাদ্যাভ্যাস এবং পরবর্তী জীবনে স্থূলতার (obesity) দিকে নিয়ে যেতে পারে। Complex যদিও কেউ কেউ যুক্তি দেন যে নিষেধাজ্ঞা কোম্পানি ও টিভি চ্যানেলের ক্ষতি করবে, শিশুদের স্বাস্থ্য রক্ষা করা বেশি গুরুত্বপূর্ণ, আর ব্যবসাগুলো তখনও প্রাপ্তবয়স্কদের জন্য বিজ্ঞাপন দিতে পারবে। Compound-Complex ফলে সরকারের উচিত কঠোর নিয়ম চালু করা, যা ছোট দর্শকদের এ ধরনের বিজ্ঞাপন থেকে রক্ষা করবে। Complex

Conclusion (35–55 words)

পরিশেষে, আমি দৃঢ়ভাবে বিশ্বাস করি যে শিশুদের জন্য টেলিভিশন বিজ্ঞাপনের অনুমতি দেওয়া উচিত নয়। Complex ছোট দর্শকেরা এই বার্তাগুলো ঠিকভাবে বিচার করতে পারে না, এবং এগুলো নিষিদ্ধ করলে শিশুরা অস্বাস্থ্যকর খাবার খাওয়ার চাপ থেকেও রক্ষা পাবে। Compound

Essay 2 — Positive and Negative Effects

> Companies spend millions each year on advertising online, in magazines and on billboards. These adverts can encourage people to buy goods that they do not really need. What are the positive and negative effects of consumerism?

Source: IELTS Liz · MED-10 · Common topic ★ Too much advertising

Essay type: Advantages–Disadvantages, Type 1 (positive and negative effects, no opinion asked) · Position: No opinion is asked for, so both sides are discussed in balance.
অবস্থান: প্রশ্নে শুধু ইতিবাচক ও নেতিবাচক প্রভাব চাওয়া হয়েছে, মতামত নয়। তাই মতামত বা plan sentence নেই। Although ও While বাক্যে আগে অসুবিধা, comma-র পরে সুবিধা।
কাঠামো: IELTS_Advantages_Disadvantages_Essay_Guide.md অনুযায়ী — Type 1 (মতামত চাওয়া হয়নি) — Although-introduction, প্রতিটি body paragraph-এ ঠিক 7টি বাক্য, While-conclusion। মতামত বা "This essay will..." বাক্য নেই। মোট 310–340 শব্দ।

পরিকল্পনা (Plan)

- Introduction (30–40): paraphrase → Although + নেতিবাচক (ঋণ, পরিবেশের ক্ষতি), + ইতিবাচক (প্রবৃদ্ধি, উদ্ভাবন)। মতামত নেই।
- Body Paragraph 1 (120–135) — ইতিবাচক, 7টি বাক্য: অর্থনৈতিক প্রবৃদ্ধি → বেশি উৎপাদন, বেশি কর্মী → উদাহরণ: বাংলাদেশের পোশাকশিল্প → কর্মসংস্থান ও উন্নত পণ্য → প্রতিযোগিতা → Overall...
- Body Paragraph 2 (120–135) — নেতিবাচক, 7টি বাক্য: নেই এমন টাকা খরচ → সহজ ঋণে দেনা → উদাহরণ: প্রতি বছর ঋণে ফোন কেনা তরুণ → বর্জ্য → ফেলে দেওয়া সস্তা পোশাক → Overall, these...

- Conclusion (25–35): নতুন paraphrase → While + নেতিবাচক, + ইতিবাচক। মতামত নেই।

Fixed openers: Although… (but ছাড়া) · There is little doubt that… · To begin with, … · This is because… · For example, … · In addition, … not only… but also… · As a result, … · Overall, … · On the other hand, it cannot be denied that… · Firstly, … · …; as a result, … · For instance, … · Secondly, … · If…, …consequently… · Overall, these… · In conclusion, … · While…, …

Word Bank for this essay

consumerism	economic growth	global demand
create jobs	fierce competition	raise living standards
easy credit	fall into debt	credit cards and loans
repay the loan	huge amounts of waste	landfills

Introduction (30–40 words)

কোম্পানিগুলো বিজ্ঞাপনে বিপুল অর্থ ব্যয় করে, যা প্রায়ই মানুষকে এমন জিনিস কিনতে প্ররোচিত করে, যা তাদের আসলে দরকার নেই। Complex যদিও ভোগবাদ (consumerism) ঋণ ও পরিবেশের ক্ষতির কারণ হতে পারে, এটি অর্থনৈতিক প্রবৃদ্ধিতে সহায়তা করে এবং উদ্ভাবনকে উৎসাহিত করে। Complex

Body Paragraph 1 — ইতিবাচক প্রভাব (120–135 words)

এতে কোনো সন্দেহ নেই যে ভোগবাদ আধুনিক অর্থনীতির জন্য উল্লেখযোগ্য সুবিধা বয়ে আনে। Complex প্রথমত, সবচেয়ে বড় সুবিধা হলো অর্থনৈতিক প্রবৃদ্ধিতে (economic growth) এর অবদান। Simple এর কারণ হলো, মানুষ যখন বেশি পণ্য কেনে, তখন কোম্পানিগুলো বেশি

উৎপাদন করে এবং কারখানা, দোকান ও পরিবহনে আরও বেশি কর্মী নিয়োগ দেয়। Complex উদাহরণস্বরূপ, পোশাকের জোরালো বৈশ্বিক চাহিদার কারণে বাংলাদেশের পোশাকশিল্পে লাখ লাখ শ্রমিক কাজ করেন, এবং তাদের মজুরিতে পুরো পরিবার চলে। Compound · Passive এছাড়া, ভোক্তাদের খরচ শুধু কর্মসংস্থানই তৈরি করে না, কোম্পানিগুলোকে পণ্যের মান উন্নত করতেও উৎসাহিত করে। Simple ব্র্যান্ডগুলোর মধ্যে তীব্র প্রতিযোগিতার ফলে প্রতিষ্ঠানগুলো গ্রাহকদের জন্য আরও ভালো, সস্তা ও সুবিধাজনক পণ্য তৈরি করে। Simple সব মিলিয়ে, ভোগবাদ কর্মসংস্থান তৈরি করতে, জীবনযাত্রার মান বাড়াতে এবং মানুষের প্রতিদিন ব্যবহৃত পণ্যগুলো উন্নত করতে সাহায্য করে। Complex

Body Paragraph 2 — নেতিবাচক প্রভাব (120–135 words)

অন্যদিকে, এটি অস্বীকার করা যায় না যে ভোগবাদের কিছু অসুবিধাও আছে। Complex প্রথমত, অনেক মানুষ এমন টাকা খরচ করে, যা তাদের কাছে নেই। Complex সহজ ঋণ কেনাকাটাকে দ্রুত ও সহজ করে দেয়; ফলে অনেকে credit card ও ঋণের মাধ্যমে দেনায় জড়িয়ে পড়ে (fall into debt), যা মানসিক চাপ ও পারিবারিক সমস্যা তৈরি করতে পারে। Compound-Complex যেমন, যে তরুণ কর্মী প্রতি বছর ঋণে সর্বশেষ মডেলের ফোন কেনেন, তাকে হয়তো মাসের পর মাস সেই ঋণ শোধ করতে হয়, যা সঞ্চয়ের জন্য খুব কম টাকা রাখে। Complex দ্বিতীয়ত, অতিরিক্ত কেনাকাটা পরিবেশের জন্য একটি গুরুতর হুমকি হতে পারে, কারণ এটি বিপুল পরিমাণ বর্জ্য তৈরি করে। Complex সস্তা পোশাক যদি মাত্র কয়েকবার পরার পরই ফেলে দেওয়া হয়, তাহলে ময়লার ভাগাড় (landfills) বড় হতে থাকে, এবং ফলস্বরূপ মাটি ও পানি আরও দূষিত হয়।

Compound-Complex সব মিলিয়ে, এই আর্থিক ও পরিবেশগত সমস্যাগুলো ব্যক্তি এবং ভবিষ্যৎ প্রজন্ম — উভয়েরই ক্ষতি করতে পারে। Simple

Conclusion (25–35 words)

পরিশেষে, সারাক্ষণ কেনাকাটার সংস্কৃতি এখন অনেক দেশেই সাধারণ। Simple যদিও (While) ভোগবাদ ব্যক্তিগত ঋণ ও ক্রমবর্ধমান বর্জ্যের দিকে নিয়ে যেতে পারে, এটি অর্থনৈতিক প্রবৃদ্ধি ও উন্নত পণ্যের চালিকাশক্তি। Complex

Essay 3 — Double Question (List + Opinion)

> The majority of news being reported is bad news, such as wars, famines, accidents and crime. Why do you think that is? Do you think the news should be a balance of both good and bad news?

Source: IELTS Liz · MED-05 · Common topic ★ Media responsibility

Essay type: Double Question — List + Opinion · Position: (1) Bad news attracts attention and earns advertising money. (2) Yes — the news should be a balance of good and bad stories.
অবস্থান: (১) খারাপ খবর মনোযোগ টানে এবং বিজ্ঞাপনের টাকা আনে। (২) হ্যাঁ — সংবাদে ভালো ও খারাপ খবরের ভারসাম্য থাকা উচিত।
কাঠামো: IELTS_Double_Question_Essay_Guide.md অনুযায়ী — Q1-এর উত্তর Body 1-এ, Q2-এর উত্তর Body 2-এ। পক্ষ বেছে নিতে হলে Opinion block (P E X R L), কেন / কী / কীভাবে জানতে চাইলে List block (P E X P E L)। মোট 260–300 শব্দ।

পরিকল্পনা (Plan)

- Introduction (30–40): paraphrase → [উত্তর 1], and [উত্তর 2] — একটি বাক্যে দুটি উত্তর।
- Body Paragraph 1 (90–120) — Q1: List block (কারণ, "I" ছাড়া): খারাপ খবর মনোযোগ টানে → উদাহরণ: প্রথম পাতায় সড়ক দুর্ঘটনা → বাণিজ্যিক চাপ → বিজ্ঞাপনের আয় → Consequently…
- Body Paragraph 2 (90–120) — Q2: Opinion block: As for whether…, I firmly believe… কারণ শুধু খারাপ খবর ভুল চিত্র দেয় → উদাহরণ: সন্তানকে বাইরে খেলতে না দেওয়া মা → Response: গুরুতর সমস্যা আগে, কিন্তু পাশাপাশি ভালো খবরও → Therefore…
- Conclusion (30–40): In conclusion, [উত্তর 1 নতুন শব্দে]. [উত্তর 2 নতুন শব্দে]. নতুন কোনো idea নয়।

Fixed openers: [Answer 1], and [answer 2]. · One of the main reasons for this is... · For example, ... · Another important reason is... · ...; as a result, ... · Consequently, ... · I firmly believe that... because... · As for whether..., I firmly believe that... · When..., ... · For instance, ... · Although some people argue that..., ... · Therefore, ... · The most effective solution is for... · In addition, ... could... · Together, these measures would... · In conclusion, ...

Word Bank for this essay

negative events	attract attention	dramatic or shocking stories
the front page	commercial pressure	advertising income
lead the news	a false picture of the world	disasters and crimes
be reported alongside	a fair mix	an accurate view

Introduction (30–40 words)

বেশিরভাগ সংবাদ যুদ্ধ, দুর্ঘটনা ও অপরাধের মতো নেতিবাচক ঘটনার ওপর জোর দেয়। Simple এর মূল কারণ হলো খারাপ খবর মনোযোগ আকর্ষণ করে এবং টাকা আয় করে, এবং আমি দৃঢ়ভাবে বিশ্বাস করি যে সংবাদে ভালো ও খারাপ খবরের ভারসাম্য থাকা উচিত। Compound-Complex

Body Paragraph 1 — Q1: List block (90–120 words)

এর একটি প্রধান কারণ হলো, খারাপ খবর মানুষের মনোযোগ আকর্ষণ করে। Complex মানুষ স্বাভাবিকভাবেই বিপদের দিকে বেশি মনোযোগ দেয়, এবং নাটকীয় বা চমকপ্রদ খবর আরও বেশি দর্শক, পাঠক ও click

টানে। Compound উদাহরণস্বরূপ, একটি সফল সামাজিক উদ্যোগের চেয়ে একটি ভয়াবহ সড়ক দুর্ঘটনার খবর প্রথম পাতায় (front page) আসার সম্ভাবনা অনেক বেশি, এবং এতে পত্রিকা বেশি বিক্রি হয়। Compound আরেকটি গুরুত্বপূর্ণ কারণ হলো বাণিজ্যিক চাপ (commercial pressure)। Simple সংবাদ প্রতিষ্ঠানগুলো যেহেতু বিজ্ঞাপনের আয়ের জন্য দর্শকের ওপর নির্ভর করে, তাই এ ধরনের খবরে জোর দেওয়ার বাণিজ্যিক তাগিদ তাদের থাকে। Complex ফলে সবচেয়ে নাটকীয় ঘটনাগুলোই সাধারণত সংবাদের শীর্ষে থাকে। Simple

Body Paragraph 2 — Q2: Opinion block (90–120 words)

সংবাদে ভারসাম্য থাকা উচিত কি না — এ প্রশ্নে আমি দৃঢ়ভাবে বিশ্বাস করি যে থাকা উচিত, কারণ সারাক্ষণ খারাপ খবর মানুষকে পৃথিবী সম্পর্কে একটি ভুল চিত্র (a false picture) দেয়। Complex দর্শকেরা যখন শুধু দুর্যোগ ও অপরাধ দেখে, তখন তারা ভাবতে পারে যে জীবন আরও খারাপ হচ্ছে, যদিও অনেক জায়গায় স্বাস্থ্য ও শিক্ষার উন্নতি হচ্ছে। Complex যেমন, যে মা শুধু অপরাধের খবর দেখেন, তিনি সন্তানদের বাইরে খেলতে দিতে অতিরিক্ত ভয় পেতে পারেন, যা তাদের স্বাস্থ্য ও আত্মবিশ্বাসের ক্ষতি করে। Complex যদিও কেউ কেউ যুক্তি দেন যে গুরুতর সমস্যাকে সবসময় অগ্রাধিকার দিতে হবে, সেগুলোর পাশাপাশি ইতিবাচক খবরও প্রচার করা যায়। Complex · Passive তাই ভালো ও খারাপ খবরের ন্যায্য মিশ্রণ জনগণের আরও ভালো উপকারে আসবে। Simple

Conclusion (30–40 words)

পরিশেষে, খারাপ খবর প্রাধান্য পায়, কারণ এটি দর্শক টানে এবং বিজ্ঞাপনের টাকা আনে। Complex আমি দৃঢ়ভাবে বিশ্বাস করি যে সংবাদে

ভালো ও খারাপ খবর মিলিয়ে দেওয়া উচিত, কারণ এতে মানুষ পৃথিবী সম্পর্কে আরও সঠিক ধারণা পায়। Complex

Part 7 — Question Bank

Practise planning these questions in 5 minutes each (Part 2 method, T-I-M test). Choose a few to write in full using the word plan of their essay-type guide (Part 2G). The hint shows which Part 3 categories give you ideas.

Agree / Disagree (one clear side)

Q1. IELTS Liz · MED-07

> With the development of online media, there is no future for the radio. To what extent do you agree?

Guide: Agree / Disagree guide

Use ideas from: Social Media vs Traditional News

Q2. IELTS Liz · MED-09

> Some people think that cinemas will one day close due to the popularity of online streaming services for films and series. Do you agree or disagree?

Guide: Agree / Disagree guide

Use ideas from: Films, Cinema & Streaming

Q3. IELTS Liz · MED-14

> Films that are based on historical events ought to be completely accurate. Do you agree?

Guide: Agree / Disagree guide

Use ideas from: Films, Cinema & Streaming; News Values

Q4. IELTS Liz · BUS-05

> If a product is good and meets consumer needs, then advertising is unnecessary. To what extent do you agree?

Guide: Agree / Disagree guide

Use ideas from: Sponsorship & Marketing; Consumerism

Q5. IELTS Liz · BUS-09

> Marketing and promotion are the key to a successful business. To what extent do you agree?

Guide: Agree / Disagree guide

Use ideas from: Sponsorship & Marketing

Q6. IELTS Liz · REA-01

> Some people think books are losing importance as a source of information and entertainment. To what extent do you agree?

Guide: Agree / Disagree guide

Use ideas from: Books, E-books & Reading; Social Media vs Traditional News

Q7. IELTS Liz · SPO-08

> Professional sports people are often idolised by young children. Some people think that they, therefore, have a responsibility to be good role models at all times. Do you agree or disagree?

Guide: Agree / Disagree guide

Use ideas from: Celebrities, Influencers & Role Models

Q8. IELTS Liz · COM-07

> Nowadays, celebrities are more famous for their glamour and wealth than for their achievements, and this sets a bad example to young people. To what extent do you agree or disagree?

Guide: Agree / Disagree guide

Use ideas from: Celebrities, Influencers & Role Models; Consumerism

Discuss Both Views

Q9. IELTS Liz · MED-16 (planned in Part 2F)

> Many people think that fast food companies should not be allowed to advertise, while others believe that all companies should have the right to advertise. What is your opinion?

Guide: Discuss Both Views guide

Use ideas from: Sponsorship & Marketing; Advertising & Children

Q10. IELTS Liz · COM-08

> Some celebrities feel that the media violates their personal space and shares their private life publicly, while others feel it is just part of being famous. What is your opinion?

Guide: Discuss Both Views guide

Use ideas from: Privacy of Famous People; Media Responsibility

Q11. IELTS Liz · MED-01

> Some companies sponsor sports as a way to advertise themselves. Some people think it is good, while others think there are disadvantages to this. Discuss both sides and give your opinion.

Guide: Discuss Both Views guide

Use ideas from: Sponsorship & Marketing

Q12. IELTS Liz · MED-08

> Some people believe that what children watch on television influences their behaviour. Others say that the amount of time spent watching television influences their behaviour. Discuss both views and give your opinion.

Guide: Discuss Both Views guide

Use ideas from: Television & Children's Behaviour; Advertising & Children

Q13. IELTS Liz · REA-04

> Some people think that e-books are the death of paper books, while others think that paper books will never disappear. Discuss both sides and give your opinion.

Guide: Discuss Both Views guide

Use ideas from: Books, E-books & Reading

Cause/Problem + Solution

Q14. IELTS Liz · BUS-06

> Large businesses have big budgets for marketing and promotion, and as a result, people gravitate towards buying their products. What problems does this cause? What could be done to encourage people to buy local products?

Guide: Cause/Problem + Solution guide

Use ideas from: Sponsorship & Marketing; Consumerism

Double Question

Q15. IELTS Liz · MED-15 · ★ too much advertising

> Many people buy products that they do not really need and replace old products with new ones unnecessarily. Why do people buy things they do not really need? Do you think this is a good thing?

Guide: Double Question guide — List + Opinion

Use ideas from: Advertising, Consumerism & Buying What We Don't Need

Part 8 — Self-Check Checklist

Use this after every translated essay (Part 6) and every homework essay (Part 9). Give yourself 1 point for each "Yes".

#	Check	Yes / No
1	Did I answer every part of the question?
2	Is my position clear in the introduction and the same in the conclusion?
3	Does each body paragraph have one main idea + explanation + example?
4	Did I use at least 5 complex and 2 compound-complex sentences?
5	Did I use 8+ words or collocations from the Word Bank / Part 4 correctly?
6	Did I check articles (a/an/the), plurals and subject–verb agreement?
7	Did I avoid repeating the same word more than 3 times (e.g. "media", "advertising")?
8	Did I follow my essay-type guide (Part 2G): its structure, its word plan (about 280 words) and no partial opinion, in 40 minutes?

> Common mistakes in media essays (এগুলো এড়িয়ে চলো):
>
> - ❌ The news are bad. → ✅ The news is bad. ("news" is uncountable and singular)
> - ❌ a news → ✅ a piece of news / a news story

- ❌ advertisement used as uncountable → ✅ advertising (the industry, uncountable) vs an advertisement / advert (one item)
- ❌ Social medias → ✅ social media (no plural "s")
- ❌ Media is showing violence every time. → ✅ The media often shows violent content.
- ❌ Celebrities' private life → ✅ celebrities' private lives
- "advertising" প্রতিশব্দ: marketing, promotion, commercials, adverts, publicity, advertising campaigns, brand promotion

Part 9 — Homework Essays

Write these essays alone in English, without looking at Part 6. Plan for 5 minutes, write for 35 minutes, and check with the Part 8 checklist. There is no model answer — send your essay to the AI if you want feedback.

Homework 1 — Problem–Solution

> Fake news is spreading rapidly through social media and messaging apps. What problems does this cause, and what measures can be taken to solve them?

Source: Practice question · ★ Fake news (no IELTS Liz question on this exact topic)

Essay type: Problem and Solution · Time: 40 minutes · Length: 260–300 words
Word plan: Intro 30–40 · BP1 2 causes/problems 90–120 · BP2 2 solutions 90–120 · Conclusion 30–40
Use ideas from: Fake News & Misinformation; Social Media vs Traditional News; Media Responsibility

ভাবনার প্রশ্ন (Thinking prompts)

- Problem + Solution: BP1-এ 2টি সমস্যা (আতঙ্ক ও সহিংসতা; স্বাস্থ্যঝুঁকি) — উদাহরণ: কোনো এলাকা নিয়ে গুজব বা ভুয়া চিকিৎসা পরামর্শ।
- BP2 (Mirror rule): প্রতিটি সমাধান একটি সমস্যার — সোশ্যাল মিডিয়া কোম্পানি (ভুয়া পোস্ট দ্রুত সরানো), স্কুল (media literacy); প্রতিটিতে WHO + WHAT + HOW।
- Introduction: This can lead to P1 and P2, but S1 and S2 can reduce these effects.

- মতামত নয়; উপসংহারে কোনো সমাধানকে "সবচেয়ে গুরুত্বপূর্ণ" বলবে না, দুটোই নতুন শব্দে।

Try to use: fake news / misinformation · go viral · social media algorithms · cause panic · damage trust in the media · fact-checking organisations · media literacy · verify information

Sentence target: use If people…, …would… once and not only… but also… once.

Homework 2 — Agree / Disagree

> In the last few decades, there have been more and more cases of famous people being hounded by the press. Some people think that famous people in the media should have no right to privacy. To what extent do you agree?

Source: IELTS Liz · MED-06 · ★ media responsibility

Essay type: Agree / Disagree — one clear side · Time: 40 minutes · Length: 270–345 words
Word plan: Intro 35–50 · BP1 Idea 1 100–120 · BP2 Idea 2 100–120 · Conclusion 35–55
Use ideas from: Privacy of Famous People; Media Responsibility; Celebrities & Role Models

ভাবনার প্রশ্ন (Thinking prompts)

- "no right to privacy" একটি চরম দাবি, তাই সম্পূর্ণ দ্বিমত নেওয়া সহজ; আংশিক উত্তর নয়।
- Idea 1: তারকারাও মানুষ — মানসিক চাপ, সন্তান ও পরিবারের নিরাপত্তা। Idea 2: বেশিরভাগ খবর শুধু gossip, জনস্বার্থে নয়। প্রতিটির একটি উদাহরণ।
- জনস্বার্থের যুক্তি (দুর্নীতি বা ভণ্ডামি প্রকাশ) BP2-এর Response বাক্যে Although অংশে রাখো।
- উপসংহার: In conclusion, I firmly believe that… + দুটি idea নতুন শব্দে। নতুন কোনো সুপারিশ বা idea নয়।

Try to use: be hounded by the press · paparazzi · an invasion of privacy · public figures · in the public interest · celebrity gossip · mental health · strict ethical codes

Sentence target: use one cleft sentence (It is… that…) and Although…, … twice.

Homework 3 — Discussion

> More and more newspapers and news channels are using photographs to support their news articles and stories. Some people think that photographs are not a reliable source of news, while others consider photographs to be irrefutable. Discuss both sides and give your opinion.

Source: IELTS Liz · MED-04

Essay type: Discussion (both views + opinion) · Time: 40 minutes · Length: 260–299 words
Word plan: Intro 35–45 · BP1 (the other view) 90–120 · BP2 (your view) 90–120 · Conclusion 35–45
Use ideas from: News Values: Bad News, Objectivity & Photographs; Fake News

ভাবনার প্রশ্ন (Thinking prompts)

- "irrefutable" মানে যা অস্বীকার করা যায় না। ছবি কেন শক্তিশালী প্রমাণ মনে হয় (চোখে দেখা, আবেগ, ঘটনাস্থলের সত্য)?
- ছবি কেন অবিশ্বস্ত হতে পারে (এডিটিং, প্রসঙ্গের বাইরে ব্যবহার, শুধু এক দিক দেখানো, ভুয়া ভিডিও)? একটি উদাহরণ ভাবো।
- তোমার মত: একটিই পক্ষ বেছে নাও, কখনো আংশিক নয়। সেটি সবসময় BP2-তে রাখো।
- উপসংহারে নতুন কোনো idea বা সুপারিশ নয়: প্রশ্ন নতুন শব্দে, দুই মতের মূল কথা, আর একই মত।

Try to use: reliable source · edited digitally · taken out of context · powerful evidence · present only one side · verify · objective reporting · critical readers

Sentence target: use While some people argue that…, others believe that… in the introduction and one relative clause with which.

Homework 4 — Double Question

> Most people think that the truth should be objective rather than subjective when it comes to the news. Do you think all news is true? What is the function of a newspaper?

Source: IELTS Liz · MED-03 · ★ fake news / media responsibility

Essay type: Double Question — Opinion + List · Time: 40 minutes · Length: 260–300 words

Word plan: Intro 30–40 · BP1 = Q1 (Opinion block) 90–120 · BP2 = Q2 (List block) 90–120 · Conclusion 30–40

Use ideas from: News Values; Media Responsibility & Press Freedom; Fake News

ভাবনার প্রশ্ন (Thinking prompts)

- Q1 "Do you think all news is true?" — Opinion block: না, কারণ প্রতিটি খবর মানুষের বাছাইয়ে তৈরি। উদাহরণ: একই নির্বাচনের ফল দুটি পত্রিকায় দুইভাবে।
- Opinion block-এর Response: Although some people argue that প্রশিক্ষিত সাংবাদিক শুধু তথ্যই দেন, [তোমার পক্ষ]।
- Q2 List block: সংবাদপত্রের 2টি কাজ (জনগণকে তথ্য দেওয়া; ক্ষমতাবানদের জবাবদিহি, watchdog); Body 2-তে "I" নয়।
- Introduction: paraphrase + [উত্তর 1], and [উত্তর 2]। Conclusion-এ দুটি উত্তর নতুন শব্দে, নতুন idea নয়।

Try to use: objective / subjective · biased reporting · editors and owners · inform the public · hold the powerful accountable · a watchdog of democracy · investigative journalism · use several sources

Sentence target: use The more…, the more… once and Unless…, … once.

Homework Tracker

Homework	Date written	Time taken	Word count	Self-check score (/8)
1 — Practice (fake news)
2 — MED-06
3 — MED-04
4 — MED-03				